

ROOSEVELT OFFERS PROPOSAL NO. 1 FOR REORGANIZATION

Plan Would Put Budget in Executive Department and Merge Works, Security and Lending in Three New Agencies.

15 MILLION A YEAR ESTIMATED SAVING

Program Effective Unless It Is Affirmatively Rejected by Congress; Contests Likely—Other Changes to Be Submitted Soon.

By RAYMOND P. BRANDT
 A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, April 25.—President Roosevelt sent to Congress today his plan No. 1 for reorganizing the larger bureaus and independent agencies of the executive department. Unless affirmatively rejected by both houses of Congress within 60 days, the plan will effect the greatest regrouping of Federal offices in the country's history.

In the near future the President will announce other plans relating to interdepartmental and intra-departmental changes authorized in the reorganization law recently enacted.

The President estimated that the plan announced today would save the Federal Government between $15,000,000 and $20,000,000 annually and would permit states and cities to make corresponding savings in their dealings with the National Government. The improved efficiency and convenience contemplated by the plan, he said, would also be felt by citizens everywhere and these economies would undoubtedly exceed direct savings in the Federal budget.

Four Classifications.

The changes proposed today were grouped under four heads:

1. For strengthening, as the President said, his "management arm" to direct budget and efficiency research, planning and personnel activities.
2. Establishment of a Federal security agency to promote social and economic security, educational opportunity and health of citizens.
3. Establishment of a Federal works agency to administer Federal grants or loans to state and local governments or other agencies for the purpose of construction.
4. Creation of a Federal loan agency for regrouping existing agencies established to stimulate and stabilize the financial, commercial and industrial enterprises of the nation.

The message to Congress today was divided into two parts, the plan itself which proposed to transfer, consolidate or abolish the existing agencies, and the message explaining the proposed changes.

New Federal Works Agency.
 Perhaps the greatest change proposed relates to the Public Works Administration, now under Secretary of the Interior, and the Works Progress Administration, now under Col. F. C. Harrington. These two great spending agencies would be grouped under the new Federal works agency together with the Bureau of Public Roads, now under the Department of Agriculture; the public buildings branch of the Treasury Department; the public management branch of the National Park Service, now in the Interior Department and the United Housing Authority, now in the Interior.

The National Youth Administration, now a part of the WPA, would be transferred to the proposed Federal Security Agency.

For the present, however, the President said that WPA and WPA would keep their own identities as separate subordinate units of the Federal Works Agency.

Senator Byrnes of South Carolina has introduced a bill to consolidate the WPA and WPA. He agreed yesterday to postpone Senate consideration of his measure until he could study the President's proposal.

RFC, FHA and HOLC Merger.
 Another great change proposed included the subordination of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, the Federal Housing Administration and the Home Owners' Loan Corporation and their subsidiary organizations to the Federal Loan Agency.

Chairman Jesse Jones of the RFC, Administrator Stewart McDonald of FIA and Chairman John H. Fahy of the HOLC each have their own adherents in Congress and there is likely to be a bitter

Gist of Changes Proposed to Congress

HERE, in brief, are the Government changes President Roosevelt wants to make to help keep "the tools of American democracy up to date":

For managerial, planning and personnel purposes, the Budget Bureau, from the Treasury to the White House offices. Central Statistical Board, from an independent status to the Budget Bureau.

National Resources Planning Board—combining national resources committee (independent) and employment stabilization office (Department of Commerce), to the White House.

Roosevelt said one of six executive assistants, to be named later, would serve as a White House liaison agent on personnel.

New Federal Security Agency:
 United States Employment Service; Federal Bureau of Investigation; Office of Education, in Interior Department; Public Health Service in the Treasury; National Youth Administration, in WPA; Social Security Board (independent); Civilian Conservation Corps (independent).

New Federal Works Agency:
 WPA and PWA, both now independent; Bureau of Public Roads, in Agriculture Department; Public Buildings branch of Treasury's production division; most of the buildings branch of the National Park Service in Interior; United States Housing Authority, in Interior Department.

New Federal Loan Agency:
 Reconstruction Finance Corporation; Electric Home and Farm Authority; Disaster Loan Corporation; Federal Farm Mortgage Corporation; Federal Home Loan Bank Board; Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Administration, and Export-Import Bank of Washington.

To the Department of Agriculture:
 The Farm Credit Administration; Federal Farm Mortgage Corporation; the Commodity Credit Corporation.

10 FIRMS, 90 MEN INDICTED IN UNLISTED SECURITIES CASE

42-Count Mail Fraud and Conspiracy Charge Returned at New York City.

NEW YORK, April 25 (AP).—Ten corporations and 90 individuals most of them dealers in over-the-counter securities, were named in a 42-count mail fraud and conspiracy indictment handed up today by a Federal grand jury.

District Judge Samuel M. Handman immediately issued bench warrants for the arrest of all individuals named.

The indictment was the second returned in this district since John T. Cahill, U. S. Attorney, offered his co-operation to James J. Caffrey, regional administrator of the Securities and Exchange Commission, in a campaign against certain unlisted securities dealers.

BRITAIN ABANDONS AIR RAID TRENCHES IN LONDON PARKS

Most of Hastily Dug Shelters Are Waterlogged and Many Have Been Filled In.

LONDON, April 25 (AP).—Most Londoners who do not leave the city apparently will have to rely on their own basements and the Government's back yard shelters for protection in the event of air raids.

Sir John Anderson, Minister of Civilian Defense, indicated yesterday he would refuse to sanction construction of any more of the shallow, hastily dug trenches which have scarred virtually every park in and around London since last September's crisis.

Some of these trenches are being completed, but many of them have been filled in. They would give shelter to only a fraction of the population and most of them are waterlogged.

SECRET HEARING ON MYSTERIOUS TRUCKING FUND

Illinois Legislative Group Withholds Names in $6000 Inquiry, Expressing Fear of Violence.

THREE DESCRIBE BELLEVILLE MEETING

Committee Plans to Hold Sessions This Week at Alton, Belleville or in East St. Louis.

By SAM B. ARMSTRONG
 A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., April 25.—A legislative subcommittee today continued its effort to trace the mysterious $6000 fund contributed by Southern Illinois truck operators, for the supposed purpose of influencing St. Louis authorities to withhold enforcement of the Missouri law requiring permit fees from freight trucks on Missouri highways.

Enforcement, which has been withheld in St. Louis since Nov. 28, last, would yield the city treasury $150,000 a year.

Three truck operators, from the Illinois industrial area near St. Louis, were heard behind closed doors yesterday by the investigating subcommittee of the Illinois Legislative Commission on uniform motor vehicle laws. The subcommittee withheld the witnesses' names, saying they feared violence from those who might be affected by their testimony.

State Senator Simon E. Lantz of Springfield, a member of the subcommittee, said to the correspondents that there were "some strong organized groups in the trucking district" whom the witnesses did not wish to antagonize.

Meeting at Belleville.
 The witnesses told of a meeting held at Belleville, April 6, following receipt of telegrams or letters from Arch Winning of Belleville, secretary of the Motor Vehicle Truck Transportation Association.

"Immediate action necessary regarding your operating in St. Louis," one of Winning's messages read. "Either be present or send representatives to act at meeting our office Friday night (April 6)."

At that time, as told in Sunday's Post-Dispatch, the city of St. Louis had been failing, for more than four months, to collect the fees which it might have required Illinois truck owners to pay under Missouri State law. St. Louis officials say this was done as a measure of policy, to prevent a possible appeal of the trucking interests to the Missouri Legislature, and that, after the close of the legislative session at Jefferson City, it was intended to begin collection of the fee.

The Illinois truckers, it now appears, knew that the fees were not being collected in St. Louis, but did not know the reason. This would have made it possible for someone to represent to them that he was using influence with the St. Louis officials, and needed money to continue such influence. The present inquiry seeks to develop whether any such representation was made.

$508,789,824 DEFENSE BILL PASSED BY SENATE

SENT TO WHITE HOUSE

WASHINGTON, April 25.—The Senate approved and sent to the White House today a $508,789,824 appropriation for army defense activities during the next fiscal year, beginning July 1.

Of the total, $94,737,281 will go for the purchase of about 600 modern fighting planes. Another $52,173,100 will be spent for such equipment as semi-automatic rifles, tanks and anti-aircraft guns.

As finally passed, the bill carried $7,116,986 less than the amount recommended by the War Department but $52,987,628 more than the similar appropriation measure for the current fiscal period.

DOCTOR WAYLAI, SHOT TO DEATH IN CHICAGO

Three Drive Away in Auto After One Kills Dr. J. McD. Scott, 74, in Street.

CHICAGO, April 25 (AP).—Dr. James McDonald Scott, a practicing physician in Chicago for 43 years, was shot and killed last night by three men who apparently were lying in wait for him near his office at 1151 South Western avenue.

Police Lieut. Thomas Sheridan said witnesses told him Dr. Scott, who was 74 years old and walked to a street corner near his office, when three men approached him from between parked automobiles. One of the men, described as young and well dressed, shot the physician twice in the head with a pistol.

Then, with his companions trailing him, the killer jumped into a car and the three sped away.

Sheridan said the killing "is a complete mystery to us," and the physician's son, Frank, said "as far as I know, father had no known enemies."

A medical directory showed Dr. Scott was graduated from Rush Medical College in 1896. He maintained an office in Chicago's Loop for many years before moving to South Western avenue.

He lived at North Wabash street with his wife, Laura Brownson Scott, 71, also a doctor, who formerly headed the Mary Thompson Hospital for women.

STOCKHOLDERS SEEK RECEIVER FOR HEARST PUBLICATIONS, INC.

Three File Suit in Wilmington, Del., Charging Neglect, Mismanagement and Waste.

WILMINGTON, Del., April 25 (AP).—Three stockholders asked the United States District Court here today to appoint a receiver for Hearst Consolidated Publications, Inc. The suit charged neglect, mismanagement and waste.

The receiver, the bill of complaint says, would "take possession of all the monies, assets and properties," and conserve them pending final determination of the litigation.

An accounting also is requested. The suit was filed by Hugh M. Morris and S. Samuel Arshon on behalf of Mary S. Lankford and Iola J. Harter of Washington, and Everett L. Mier, whose address was given only as Illinois.

Named as defendants are the Hearst Consolidated Publications, American Newspapers, Inc., Hearst Enterprises, W. W. Hearst, members of his family and officers of Hearst companies.

9-MONTH RELIEF OUTLAY MORE THAN FOR PREVIOUS 12

Total for Period Ending March 31, Last, Is $2,005,288,000; Missouri, $60,450,000.

WASHINGTON, April 25 (AP).—A summary of expenditures by agencies disbursing funds under emergency relief appropriation acts of 1937 and 1938 disclosed today that $4,048,255 more had been spent in the fiscal period July 1, 1938, to March 31, 1939, than in the 1938 fiscal year.

In fiscal year 1938 expenditures were $2,001,240,379. For the first nine months of the current fiscal year the total was $2,005,288,000. The Federal fiscal year runs from July 1 through June 30.

The expenditures, by states, for the fiscal 1938 year and for the nine-month period of the 1939 year, includes: Illinois, $128,959,759 and $149,031,261; Missouri, $51,767,011 and $60,450,784.

Peoria Police Chief Says Suspect Seized on Highway Near Mississippi Has Confessed.

PEORIA, Ill., April 25 (AP).—Police Chief Leo Kamins said today George Slater, arrested on a Mississippi River island near Ste. Genevieve, Mo., had confessed a $25,000 jewelry theft here April 12. Slater, whose home was said to be in St. Louis, is to be brought to Peoria tonight by airplane. Theft of the jewels was reported by Arthur Fless, salesman for a wholesale dealer, who said two sample cases were stolen by a transient he had employed to guard them.

C. F. Gamble Loses Life at Broadway and Washington When Car, Knocked Against Curb, Upsets.

OTHER MOTORIST HELD FOR CORONER

Witness Tells Police Earl L. Whitney Was Speeding and Went Past Major Street Sign.

Charles F. Gamble, 330 Russell avenue, was killed early today when his automobile was knocked by another machine against the curb at the northeast corner of Broadway and Washington avenue and turned over on the sidewalk, dashing him against the wall of a building and crushing his skull. He was 29 years old, a laborer.

The other driver, who said he was Earl L. Whitney, an automobile mechanic, 3351 Belt avenue, was booked by police for careless driving and failure to observe a stop sign, and was held for the Coroner under $5000 bond. He said his car, going east on Washington, was hit by Gamble's, going north on Broadway. Gamble was thrown out when his car turned over.

A witness, Joseph Gilardi, 1443 North Seventh street, told police the east-bound automobile went into the intersection at high speed without stopping at the major street sign.

HITLER TO TALK 90 MINUTES; U. S. BROADCAST ARRANGED

Start Set for 5 A. M. in German and English.

BERLIN, April 25 (AP).—To make sure that all possible in Germany hear Adolf Hitler speak Friday, from 12 to 1:30 p. m. (5 a. m. to 6:30 a. m. St. Louis time), business establishments will be closed, and factory employees and school children must assemble before radios in halls.

The period designated for the assemblies indicated Hitler intends to speak for an hour and a half.

NEW YORK, April 25 (AP).—All American networks are making plans to broadcast Adolf Hitler's speech Friday. NBC, CBS, MEC and the inter-city chains will open early enough to start the pickup from Berlin at the scheduled time of 6 a. m. Eastern Standard Time. The speech will be carried in its entirety, with English interpolations and summaries.

AIM IS TO REFLECT NATION'S SENTIMENT

Step Taken in Self-Defense, Ambassador Henderson Will Tell Germany—Course Urged by France and Russia.

LONDON, April 25 (AP).—The British Cabinet, meeting in extraordinary session, was reliably reported tonight to have outlined a new compulsory military service bill.

It was understood the bill would provide for:

(1) Mandatory physical training; (2) Enforced elementary military training for men between 19 and 21.

It was believed the Government was pushing its plans for a new military service system with the intention of announcing them before Chancellor Hitler answers the Roosevelt appeal Friday.

An opportunity for announcement of the Government's decision will come tomorrow when a motion calling for conscription will be before the House of Lords.

Envoy to Notify Berlin.

Sir Neville Henderson, who returned to his post as Ambassador to Berlin yesterday after a five-week absence, was described in reliable quarters as having been directed to tell Hitler that the British Government was taking a far-reaching step toward conscription.

Hitler was to be advised it was a matter of self-defense in the present world situation and as a reflection of popular sentiment in the nation.

Numerous suggestions have been made as to what form the initial steps in conscription would take. Advocates long have argued that such a sharp break with British tradition would have great value simply as a token to the world of the nation's determination to match power against Hitler or Premier Mussolini of Italy.

Britain has been under pressure from France and more recently from Soviet Russia to put sharp teeth such as conscription into the British-French alliance of nations.

It was reported that Sir William Seeds, British Ambassador in Moscow, had sent a message to Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain emphasizing the Soviet view that British should adopt conscription to back its alliance against Rome and Berlin. This was just before Henderson was ordered to return to Berlin.

Labor Opposition.
 Because of Labor opposition, any form of conscription appeared certain to cause political dissension. Some quarters expressed belief that Chamberlain could get around this by broadening the political complexion of his Government and arguing that the decision was necessary to assure Russian support, which both Laborites and Liberals have urged.

British labor circles argued that Hitler was unlikely to change his Reichstag speech because of any warning from Whitehall.

On the other hand, Foreign Office officials theorized that only a threat of conscription would make Hitler realize how great a revolution had taken place in British foreign policy since the Munich settlement last September.

Usually well-informed sources discarded Chamberlain's statement in the House of Commons yesterday that Henderson's return to Berlin had "no special significance," and insisted he had been instructed to try to tone down the Fuehrer's Reichstag declaration.

The Ambassador was expected to emphasize that Britain gave full support to Roosevelt's proposals for German and Italian non-aggression.

BRITAIN TO SEND LORD LOTHIAN AS ENVOY TO U. S.

Marquess, Bachelor and Wealthy Land Owner, Has Been Called Member of Cliveden Set.

HE FAVORS CLOSER BRITISH-U. S. TIE

Was Secretary to Lloyd George for Five Years—Will Arrive in Summer to Succeed Lindsay.

LONDON, April 25 (AP).—The Foreign Office announced yesterday that King George VI has approved appointment of the eleventh Marquess of Lothian as British Ambassador to the United States.

Lord Lothian, war-time secretary to Prime Minister David Lloyd George and a wealthy land owner, who, it was announced, is "retiring in the course of the summer." This retirement had been expected since Lord Lothian, who will be 62 years old May 3, has been Ambassador in Washington since 1930.

Lord Lothian is expected to assume his Ambassadorship, his first major diplomatic assignment, following the visit of King George and Queen Elizabeth to the United States in June.

"Cliveden Set" Label.

One of the notables entertained frequently by Lady Astor at her estate, Cliveden, Lord Lothian has been labeled by anti-fascists a member of the so-called "Cliveden set" and accused of attempting to mold British foreign policy along Nazi-Fascist lines.

A year ago he publicly accused Communists of inventing the "Cliveden set," and he denied such a group existed. "The whole thing," he said at the time, "is a complete mare's nest. There has, to the best of my knowledge, never been a meeting of the supposed principals for discussion of foreign policy."

Following a private interview with Chancellor Hitler in 1935, Lord Lothian described the German Fuehrer as "a prophetic type of man, an entirely different type from Mussolini."

He said then that Hitler "earnestly desires peace and is in no way anxious for war."

In a speech in the House of Lords April 13, however, he said he had read for the first time an unexpurgated edition of Hitler's "Mein Kampf" during the Easter holidays, and had concluded Hitler intended to remake a large part of the world by force.

Counts on Aid From U. S.

In that address, he said, among other things: "I believe we can count on being able to obtain from the United States facilities for bringing the enormous industrial resources of that country behind the democracies to help in any way that is possible."

He upheld Prime Minister Chamberlain's appeasement policy as right insofar as it was an effort "to prove to the rest of the world that we wanted appeasement and not war."

"But today if we want to be sure of support from the dominions and of sympathy and assistance from the United States—and I have visited both recently—it is absolutely essential that we should prove to the world that we are capable of giving effective resistance to aggression," he continued.

Lothian returned to England Feb. 15 on the Queen Mary, a fellow passenger with United States Ambassador Joseph P. Kennedy. He had been Kennedy's guest at Palm Beach during the envoy's winter vacation.

Lord Lothian, once a champion of the League of Nations, has been classed in recent years as being among those seeking a British rapprochement with Germany. He was credited with having done the spadework for such a rapprochement in the fall of 1937, but he had figured little in the diplomatic news of the last year.

Lord Lothian is Governor of the Bank of Scotland and has been considered more as a conservative business man than as a powerful political figure.

Lord Lothian was 57 April 18. After being educated in the oratory school, Birmingham and at New College, Oxford, he went to South Africa, where he served on several Government commissions and as editor of "The State."

He was secretary to Lloyd George from 1918 to 1921; a director of United Newspapers Ltd. in 1921 and 1922; Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster in 1931; and Parliamentary under-secretary for the India office in 1931 and 1932.

Besides being Marquess of Lothian, the Ambassador-designate, is Lord Newbattle, Earl of Lothian, Baron Jedburgh, Earl of Ancrum, Baron Kerr of Nisbet, Baron Long-Newton and Dalphingston, Viscount of Brien, Baron Kerr of Newbattle and Baron Kerr.

gression pledges to 31 nations, and that their rejection would increase European tension.

Some sources said Henderson would seek an interview with Hitler.

Chamberlain is faced with the task of explaining previous statements he would not favor any conscription during peacetime.

Observers pointed out that Chamberlain had a good excuse to reverse himself: view of the guarantees given to Poland, Rumania and Greece to help them if their independence is threatened.

One informed source said Grigore Gafencu, Rumanian Foreign Minister, who is in London discussing the British-Rumanian pledge, told British officials Germany was making propaganda out of the fact Britain does not have conscription.

This report said German diplomats had been instructed to emphasize to Britain's prospective allies that the small British standing army would make a poor "protector."

Some well-informed sources said Britain had sent Henderson back to Berlin with instructions to warn Hitler it would adopt conscription if he rejected Roosevelt's appeal or failed to give some other active indication of an intention to keep peace in Europe.

What Britain meant by "indications of peaceful German intentions" was interpreted by one source as the introduction of some important measure of demobilization of German troops, cessation of the German absorption of Bohemia and Moravia, and the removal of German men and ships from Spain.

It was said Henderson had been instructed to tell Hitler that Britain, in return for such conciliatory signs, would be willing to consider German proposals for easier access to raw materials for its industry.

British Press Comment.

British press comment generally favored the diplomatic move to influence Hitler's pronouncement Friday. The Daily Mail said it was "supremely important" he should know exactly where Britain stood before he made some "irretrievable pronouncement."

The Daily Telegraph declared the impression of apparent leishureliness created by voluntary enrollment in Britain's army "gives encouragement to would-be peace breakers and arouses doubts among would-be allies."

Meanwhile observers are keeping close watch on the course of Yugoslavia, whose Foreign Minister, Alexander Cincin-Markovich, arrived in Berlin today after negotiations with Italy. It was believed the Berlin talks might be decisive in swinging Yugoslavia either to or away from the Rome-Berlin axis.

Whitehall officials were pleased with assurances received from Gafencu that Rumania was not unalterably opposed to accepting the support of Russia in event of an emergency.

This assurance, it was felt, brought British-French-Russian cooperation in event of war a step closer.

Britain was reported to have promised a "run money" loan to Rumania to relieve the Bucharest Government of the necessity of bartering away wealth for Nazi guns.

Chamberlain talked with Gafencu for more than an hour yesterday. A commission of British experts headed by Sir Frederick Leith-Ross, meanwhile, opened trade negotiations with Rumania in Bucharest. Informed sources there said the negotiations marked the beginning of a campaign to draw Rumania away from Germany's economic and political influence.

Drop in Italian Foreign Trade.

ROME, April 25 (AP).—Italian Foreign trade for the first quarter of 1939 showed a substantial reduction in the unfavorable balance compared with the same period a year ago. Figures released today gave the following: A reduction in the excess of imports over exports from $60,963,400 to $25,058,586; exports totaled $97,888,600 against $100,676,400 and imports totaled $122,928,200 compared to $161,638,800.

YUGOSLAVIA SAYS IT WANTS NEUTRAL ROLE IN EUROPE

Foreign Minister, Leaving for Berlin, Declares He Will Make No New Commitments.

BEIGRADE, April 25 (AP).—Yugoslavia will make no new commitments to Germany, Alexander Cincin-Markovich, the Foreign Minister, said today before departing for Berlin.

The Foreign Office explained the Foreign Minister "seeks information, not treaties" and that in his talks with the Germans he would ask for clarification of certain questions raised in conversations with the Italian Foreign Minister, Count Galeazzo Ciano, over the week end at Venice.

Accompanying Cincin-Markovich to Berlin was the German Minister to Belgrade, Victor von Heeren. Government spokesmen emphasized Yugoslavia's desire to remain as nearly neutral between Europe's two rival camps as possible. Nevertheless, the country sought expansion of markets and hoped commercial relations with the Reich would be improved by trade negotiations to begin at Cologne May 2.

Political circles said they believed Yugoslavia had avoided definite commitments to Italy and Germany thus far, despite an official communiqué issued after the talks with Ciano promising "faithful collaboration" with the axis. They said the chief results of the Venice and Berlin visits would be economic since Germany is interested in obtaining more raw materials.

In an effort to smooth out internal differences, Prince Paul, the Regent, was believed about to initiate consultations for formation of a new Government to include the dissident Croat minority.

It was believed Premier Dragisa Cvetkovitch would continue in office and that the Croat leader, Vladko Matcekh, would not participate directly in the new Government, which will aim at instituting reforms demanded by the Croats.

Though no announcement has been made, differences between the Croats and the Serbs, who control the Government, were regarded as settled through recent negotiations and a definite agreement may be signed this week.

Cincin-Markovich's Berlin visit would be followed by the German-Yugoslav trade negotiations in Cologne. Officials said these talks would take up questions raised by the German absorption of Bohemia and Moravia, and it was taken for granted larger issues also would be considered.

As another result of the Venice talks Yugoslavs considered their relations with Hungary had taken a turn for the better.

SPECIAL DEFENSE POWERS SOUGHT FOR KING OF BELGIANS

Premier Asks Deputies to Authorize Issuance of Decree for Financial Rehabilitation.

BRUSSELS, April 25 (AP).—Premier Hubert Pierlot asked the Belgian Chamber of Deputies today to grant King Leopold special powers to make decisions considered necessary for the defense of the country.

The Premier also requested that his Government be authorized to issue decrees for financial rehabilitation. A commission of 27 Deputies will study the proposals.

Pierlot said that the Government was striving to "recreate an atmosphere of confidence likely to bring back capital to industry," and that the administration would "remain faithful to the policy of independence."

GERMAN FLEET ON CRUISE DUE AT CADIZ THURSDAY

25 Vessels Expected at Moroccan Ports Before May 2, and Spanish Coast May 6.

VIGO, Spain, April 25 (AP).—The German fleet of 25 ships on a training cruise in Spanish waters is due at the port of Cadiz Thursday and at Algeiras, Malaga, Ceuta and Tangier (the latter two in Morocco) before May 2.

The fleet will arrive on the Bay of Biscay coast May 6, visiting Ferrol and Pontevedra, in Spain, and Lisbon, Portugal.

The German cruiser Admiral Scheer is now at Bilbao and will sail tomorrow after a four-day courtesy visit.

Chamberlain talked with Gafencu for more than an hour yesterday. A commission of British experts headed by Sir Frederick Leith-Ross, meanwhile, opened trade negotiations with Rumania in Bucharest. Informed sources there said the negotiations marked the beginning of a campaign to draw Rumania away from Germany's economic and political influence.

HITLER'S PAPER MOCKINGLY ASKS IF U. S. WILL GIVE WORD NOT TO ATTACK HAITI

BERLIN, April 25 (AP).—DOLF HITLER'S newspaper, Voelkischer Beobachter, mockingly asked today whether President Roosevelt would guarantee not to "attack Haiti and San Domingo during the next 25 years."

Renewing an intensive anti-Roosevelt campaign, Beobachter, President Roosevelt today "so many states, the names of which many Americans have heard for the first time from the jolly non-aggression list," in his message to the Fuehrer proposing peace guarantees to 31 nations.

The newspaper accused the President of attempting to impose "to other countries all possible plans of conquest" while his own appetite for foreign possessions unveils itself.

"We ask him, therefore, to pledge himself not to direct any attack upon Haiti, Santo Domingo (the Dominican Republic), and Dutch possessions in the West Indies which now have become revealed as the object of American desirability?"

Beobachter's reference apparently was to a proposal submitted to a committee of the United States to purchase Greenland and certain Netherlands possessions near the Panama Canal for defense bases.

BRITAIN TO SPEND $3,150,000,000 IN YEAR ON DEFENSE

"I warn an intent House. At least half of the defense costs will be met by loans. Britain will spend nearly 50 per cent of an estimated budget of nearly $3,150,000,000 for defense.

$25,000,000 for Food Reserves.

Sir John disclosed that $5,000,000 ($25,000,000) had been set aside for expenditure on food reserves in the new budget for the 1939-40 fiscal year which began April 1.

The Chancellor estimated the extra duty on photographic film and plates manufactured in this country would yield more than $500,000 ($2,500,000).

He reduced theater admission taxes by one penny (two cents). He announced $24,000,000 would have to be raised by new taxation. Automobile owners will bear a big part of the increased tax load, with an increase from 15 shillings ($3.75) per horsepower to 25 shillings ($6.25) on private automobiles.

Sir John said that the big boost in the automobile tax would provide $11,500,000 ($57,500,000) in a year. The new rate, however, is not effective until Jan. 1, 1940. Duties on motorcycles will be correspondingly increased.

The basic duty on tobacco will be raised from 9 shillings 6 pence per pound to 11 shillings 6 pence ($2.87) per pound.

The duty on sugar will be increased by 1 farthing (half a cent) a pound effective today.

The sugar increase will mean an extra 2 shillings and 4 pence (58 cents) on each 100 pounds of sugar imported.

Income Surtax Increased.

The Chancellor increased the surtax a further 5 per cent on incomes up to $800 ($40,000) and a further 10 per cent on incomes over $800.

Hitherto the rate on the highest $2000 of an income of $8000, combining basic income tax and surtax, has been 9 shillings 6 pence per pound or 47 1/2 per cent. It now becomes 52 1/2 per cent.

Hitherto the rate on the $2000 between $800 and $10,000 has been 52 1/2 per cent. It becomes 62 1/2 per cent.

The surtax is a special additional income tax levied on those earning $2000 or more.

Under the tax increase on estate duties a surcharge of 10 per cent of the existing duty on estates exceeding $50,000 ($250,000) must be paid. The rate is 15 per cent for an estate of $50,000 and rises gradually to 50 per cent.

Simon said the changes in taxation would bring the total revenue for 1939-40 to $942,600,000 ($4,713,000,000) providing a surplus of $156,000 ($780,000).

The Chancellor concluded: "The expenditure to meet defense needs is approved by the general sense of the country and of Parliament. Heavy as the burden is, the country is willing to pay for world peace."

JAPANESE REPORT KILLING 24,100 IN CHANGSHA DRIVE

Claim 8630 Chinese Prisoners—Tell of Sinking 30 Junks on Han River With Thousands Drowned.

SHANGHAI, April 25 (AP).—Japanese officers reported yesterday that 24,100 Chinese were killed and 8630 captured from March 30 to April 20 by Japanese forces driving westward toward Changsha, Hunan Province capital.

In addition, the Japanese air force was said to have sunk 30 junks carrying "thousands" of Chinese soldiers on the Han River in Central Hupeh Province. All the soldiers were reported to have drowned.

Rumors that the Japanese were massing reinforcements at Formosa preparatory to sending them into South China caused acute uneasiness at Swatow, seaport in Northeast Kwantung Province. The civilian population of the city was fleeing inland.

GERMANY TRYING NOT TO RECEIVE BRITISH WARNING

British warning against invasion of Czechoslovakia his visit would achieve nothing constructive. If, on the other hand, he had had a concrete proposal for solution of that crisis then, of course, his visit would have been welcomed. Henderson was reported then as saying he had no new proposals.

Apparently history was to repeat itself. Unless the Ambassador intimates to Ribbentrop that he has a special message, Wilhelmstrasse will be in no hurry to receive him. Henderson received the Italian Ambassador to Berlin, Bernardo D. Attolico. A British Embassy spokesman declined to disclose the purpose of the call.

Meanwhile, it was disclosed that the Fuehrer would deliver his answer to the President early Friday afternoon, instead of in the evening, as has been customary when he addresses the Reichstag. The Reichstag will be convened at noon (5 a. m. St. Louis time).

Hitler's desire to reach as large a part of the public as possible was given as a reason for the move. The expected return to Berlin of the French Ambassador, Robert Coulondre, who went home to Paris about the same time Henderson departed, helped increase the feeling of German absorption of Bohemia and Moravia, and it was taken for granted larger issues also would be considered.

It was indicated in political quarters that in such talks Germany would continue to insist upon settlement of some still outstanding claims, including return of colonies.

It was reliably indicated the German Ambassador to London, Herbert von Dirksen, who came home when Henderson left Berlin last month, would not return to his post until the British give satisfactory assurances that the policy of "enclavement"—the British-French effort to create alliances against Germany—had been abandoned.

The information service, Dienst Aus Deutschland, which is close to the Foreign Office, also indicated Berlin would wait awhile before sending Ambassador Count Johannes von Welzbeck back to Paris.

Bulgaria Says It Doesn't Consider Itself Menaced by Germany.

SOFIA, April 25 (AP).—Informed quarters said that Bulgaria had replied as follows to Germany's questionnaire regarding aggression: Bulgaria has not asked the United States for assistance; Bulgaria did not know in advance of President Roosevelt's message to Chamberlain that the United States was asking these men to agree to a non-aggression period; Bulgaria does not consider it is menaced by Germany.

BRITISH FLEET TO VISIT GREECE AND PALESTINE

It Will Also Stop in Cyprus and Egypt; Gunners Practice Next Month.

LONDON, April 25 (AP).—The British Admiralty announced last night that the Mediterranean fleet would carry out exercises in the Eastern Mediterranean following the summer cruise to ports in that area.

Units of the fleet, it said, would visit ports in Greece, Cyprus, Palestine and Egypt.

The home fleet will assemble at Portland, strategic English naval base, Friday and Saturday.

After the departure of King George VI and Queen Elizabeth for Canada, May 8, the home fleet would carry out usual gunnery practices from Portland, the Admiralty said. Units of the home fleet will participate in ceremonies attending the departure of the King and Queen.

Chapel on King's Ship.

LONDON, April 25 (AP).—A chapel of St. Christopher, patron saint of travelers, has been built aboard the battle cruiser Repulse, on which King George and Queen Mary will journey to Canada and the United States next month. The King and Queen will attend services in the chapel with officers and men of the ship.

FRENCH DECREE BARS PRESS ATTACKS ON RACE, RELIGION

Believed Aimed at Anti-Jewish Campaign—Publication of Foreign Propaganda Also Forbidden Under Heavy Penalties.

PARIS, April 25 (AP).—The French Government imposed today a rigid press law forbidding publication of foreign propaganda and attacks on race or religion under the penalty of heavy fines and imprisonment.

The Government's sweeping control, established under the parliament conferred dictatorial powers, was believed to be directed principally at curbing a growing number of pamphlets bitterly attacking Jews and an increasing number of political journals accused of being subsidized from abroad.

Members of the Government in the past have expressed fear that money from Germany and Italy was being judiciously distributed to some sections of the French press either as outright bribes or disguised as advertising.

Involved in the Government's concern was a fear that colored news dispatches might divide French public opinion in times of crisis.

Each Faction Accuses Other.

Leftist newspapers have accused Rightist publications of being financed by German and Italian sources. The Rightists have been quick to retort that the Leftist press is being subsidized by Soviet Russia.

While the decrees as now worded give the Government power only to prosecute offenders in courts after publication, the anti-propaganda law contains a clause which gives the government the right to confiscate the property of anyone found guilty and to outlaw his civil rights.

France warily followed Britain's lead in sending her Ambassador back to Berlin prior to Reichsfuehrer or Hitler's answer next Friday to President Roosevelt's appeal for non-aggression guarantees.

The French envoy, Robert Coulondre, arranged to depart late today for the post he left March 18, three days after the Czech-Slovak republic was dissolved.

He is scheduled to arrive in New York aboard the Normandie May 1 and to participate in ceremonies opening the French exhibit at the New York World's Fair. Later he plans to make a lecture tour through the Eastern and Middle-Eastern states.

SECOND FRENCH SHIP BURNS; INQUIRY BEGUN

Vessel Was Being Broken Up Near Naval Powder and Gasoline Depot.

TOULON, France, April 25 (AP).—The French Government opened today an investigation of what authorities thought might be the second case of sabotage within a week—the burning of the steamship Angers.

The 9847-ton Angers was destroyed shortly before last midnight at La Seyne shipyard, near a powder and gasoline depot which serves the main French naval base at Toulon. The loss was estimated at 200,000 francs ($2000).

The fire followed by two days the explosion from Toulon of six Italian employees of a factory working on national defense orders. They were accused of spreading anti-French propaganda.

Six days earlier, the liner Paris was swept by fire at Le Havre, and the explosion of a 19-year-old Albatross watchman, who was charged with incendiary duties still were investigating the Le Havre fire on the theory that it was a "criminal act," possibly committed by foreign agents.

The Angers, formerly called the Capacorne, was built in 1917 at Hamburg and was being broken up when the fire started.

The ship was owned by a subsidiary of Messageries Maritimes, a French company.

PARIS, April 25 (AP).—Foreign Minister Georges Bonnet had a long conference today with French Deputy Francis de Tesson, former Undersecretary of State for Foreign Affairs, who will leave tomorrow for the United States on a "personal mission" during which he is to see President Roosevelt.

De Tesson plans to spend some time in Washington, sources close to the Foreign Office said. He is a personal friend of Mr. and Mrs. Roosevelt.

He is scheduled to arrive in New York aboard the Normandie May 1 and to participate in ceremonies opening the French exhibit at the New York World's Fair. Later he plans to make a lecture tour through the Eastern and Middle-Eastern states.

TOULON, France, April 25 (AP).—The French Government opened today an investigation of what authorities thought might be the second case of sabotage against French merchant vessels within a week—the burning of the steamship Angers.

SURVEY PROPOSES SCHOOLS EDUCATE FOR ACTUAL LIVING

Reorganization for Attack on Problems for Nursery Children and Adults Is Recommended.

CITIZENSHIP STUDY TOO LITTLE STRESSED

Prof. H. L. Caswell, Advising Curriculum Changes, Notes Dr. Gerling Has Made Start.

By RICHARD G. BAUMHOFF
Of the Post-Dispatch Staff.

On the thesis that the school must become more and more a civic center, co-ordinating the various educational agencies of the community and serving adults and children alike in "attacks upon actual problems of living," the survey reported to the Board of Education yesterday makes an extensive set of curriculum recommendations.

It proposes reorganization of the school system, under a new plan in use in some cities, extending from the nursery school to the junior college with the seventh to tenth grades in middle schools and the eleventh to fourteenth in upper schools, and with greater provision for adult education.

Summary of Findings. Prof. H. L. Caswell of Teachers College, Columbia University, wrote the curriculum chapters of the survey report. A summary of major recommendations follows:

Extension of the nursery schools, for the child as young as 3 from the very limited present activity, first to underprivileged districts, then throughout the city.

Nursery classes can be housed in grade schools. Unification of nursery school, kindergarten and first grade in a single, flexible program, with a "rich variety of educational experiences," reducing size of classes materially.

Instruction in elementary grades, through the sixth, in skills and understandings needed in daily life and for further schooling, with character development through social co-operation and many first-hand experiences; more flexible programs for most teachers.

Increased provision for development of civic intelligence, greater expression and recreational interests, and less emphasis on formal drill and textbook learning.

Assignment of a class to the same teacher throughout a single elementary grade, for more adequate and personal guidance, dropping the system of quarterly promotions and the organization of some schools by subject departments.

Extension of teaching of handicapped children to cover all in that category, with development in terms of particular needs of the various groups, making their general curriculum highly flexible, down to the individual child. Excellence of work already done in this field is praised.

Middle School's Purpose.

The middle school should "provide more adequate opportunities for children of early adolescence to develop special interests and abilities and to acquire further understandings needed for effective participation in social life."

Broadly, the course would include language, social studies, science and fine and practical arts, correlated with activities and problems of the community.

The upper school should serve those who will later attend advanced college, those who will specialize in vocational studies and those who will finish formal schooling there. It should offer continued general education "through a unified program developed around social and individual problems, with adequate provision for special interests." For the three types of pupils there should be, respectively, college preparatory courses, vocational courses and courses of a "problem or consumer type."

Aid in co-ordinating the work of many agencies engaged in adult education, with an expanded program, both formal and informal. Citizenship is cited as the area of greatest neglect in formal adult work.

Abolition of practices which "create breaks in the school program so as to make general education selective and severely limited"—such as formal graduation from elementary school, lists of elementary graduates divided on the basis of scholastic qualification restrictions in high school and selection of non-academic subjects, distinctions between high school diplomas and certificates, and "throughout the schools, emphasis on intelligence quotients and achievement measures as criteria of classification and progress."

Variety of Experience. Concluding these recommendations, the report says: "The total program of general education must include provisions for all types of desirable experiences in the various areas of living. St. Louis schools will provide an optimum kind of general education when for all groups a variety of educational experience replaces excessive reliance on textbook reading and recitations. Extended use of first-hand experiences at all levels, wider use of all the resources of the community, greater attention to the improvement of those things individuals do outside schools—all these will provide more effective education for a large number of individuals.

"There is evidence," the report goes on, "that the present administration of the St. Louis schools is seeking to carry forward the traditional concern for the underlying purposes and function of the educational system. The superintendent (Henry J. Gerling) continues the practice of weighing administrative decisions in terms of their influence on educational opportunities. He is fully conscious of many needs for curriculum improvement."

"In the large, the needs which are pointed out for instructional improvement and curriculum development will not be new to the administration of the St. Louis schools. Most of these needs will be points upon which work has been going forward. "The situation in St. Louis schools as to the general outlook of professional workers seems to be that there is rather general acceptance of a forward-looking view as to the function, purposes and general processes of education, a restricted application of this theory to practice and still greater restriction in actual practices in St. Louis schools."

"Whether the reason for this is to be found in the practical exigencies of the situation or in failure to give sufficient study to the implications of general theory, or a combination of both, as is most likely, there is evident here a need which is basic to sound curriculum development."

JUDGE STUDIES PLEA FOR NEW TRIAL OF NICK OUSTER SUIT

Ruling Tomorrow on Defense Motion; Receiver for Movie Union Files Report.

A defense motion for a new trial of the ouster suit against John P. Nick and Clyde A. Weston, indicted union bosses, was taken under advisement without argument yesterday by Circuit Judge Ernest F. Oakley.

Neither Paul Dillon nor Sigmund Bass, defense attorneys, were in court when Judge Oakley called for arguments on the motion. Munroe Roberts, attorney for 63 intervenors in the suit, wanted to argue his motion to set aside Judge Oakley's appointment of a receiver last Friday for movie operators' local union No. 143. The court announced that both motions would be received without argument, and that a ruling would be made tomorrow afternoon. Dillon, who arrived later, made no comment. Bass was engaged in a hearing in Probate Court at the time.

A preliminary report of Receiver James A. McKeown stating that Local 143 has $52,268 on deposit in three banks and securities with a face value of $52,600 was presented to the court. Frank P. Aschmeyer, attorney for McKeown, was instructed to make a detailed report on the present value of the securities, which include Government bonds.

MO.-PAC. TO PAY WIDOW OF BRAKEMAN $20,000

She Sued for $85,000; Each of Three Children to Get $2000 of Payment.

A stipulation providing for payment of $20,000 by the Missouri Pacific Railroad to Mrs. Robert E. Rice of Popular Bluff, Mo., widow of a brakeman killed in a railroad accident, was agreed on yesterday before trial of Mrs. Rice's damage suit in Circuit Judge David J. Murphy's court.

She had sued for $85,000. Of the $20,000 payment, it was agreed that $14,000 would go to Mrs. Rice and $2000 to each of three children. Rice was killed at Popular Bluff Dec. 3, 1937.

NEW INQUIRY LIKELY IN KIRKWOOD FIRING

School Board May Ask Outside Educators to Look Into Principal's Case.

A further investigation of the firing of Eugene S. Lehmann as principal of the Kirkwood High School will be made, it was indicated today, after a meeting of 400 parents at the high school last night broke up in confusion after failing to settle any of the issues.

The failure of the Kirkwood Board of Education to rehire Lehmann for next year was made the occasion for a two-hour strike of pupils at the school yesterday. There was no demonstration by pupils today.

Hollis E. Suits, president of the board, said that a suggestion made at the meeting last night that a committee of three disinterested educators, chosen from the faculties of Washington and St. Louis Universities, be appointed to investigate the case may be taken up. He added that the board would have to act on the suggestion at its meeting next Tuesday.

Parents to Press Inquiry.

Several parents of high school pupils told the Post-Dispatch that they would press an inquiry into the matter. They said that last night's meeting had been arranged to learn the reasons for the firing of Lehmann, but that no specific reasons had been brought out. Suits turned aside all questions at the gathering with the statement that Lehmann had not been rehired "due to a lack of co-operation between the principal and the faculty." He declined to amplify that statement.

Asked today by a Post-Dispatch reporter if the opposition of Superintendent of Schools Frank P. Tillman to Lehmann was a reason for the dismissal, he said it was, but that that was "not the only reason." He declined to say what other reason might be.

Last night's meeting was presided over by B. F. Batts, an attorney of 231 West Jefferson avenue, Kirkwood. After two hours of discussion, the meeting broke up when some of the pupils announced that unless they got to the bottom of the matter they "would not be responsible for what happened at school."

Lehmann Popular With Pupils. Just previous to this remark, James L. MacKay, 573 South Clay avenue, Kirkwood, had made the suggestion for the appointment of the disinterested committee. Other speakers included J. Spencer Gould, 408 Way avenue, a former member of the Board of Education, and Walter O'Brien.

Lehmann, who has been principal for 11 years, has been popular with both pupils and parents. Four years ago Tillman was forced to reconsider his decision to drop Lehmann after many protests had been made by Kirkwood citizens. Since then, one of the men at last night's meeting said, there has been continued tension between the board, and Lehmann.

NO STREET LIGHTS ON BLOCK

City Can't Install Them Because It's Private Thoroughfare.

The block on Highland avenue between Euclid and Marcus avenues has been without street lights since last November when the old gas lamps were removed and the city subsequently learned that it could not install new electric lights because the block is a private thoroughfare.

Charles B. Meichel, chief city electrical engineer, said that two of the 25 residents in the block refused to dedicate the block to the city, thus blocking efforts to put in the electric lights.

SCHOOL SURVEY FORUM 8:15 O'CLOCK TONIGHT

Citizens May Submit Written Questions at Meeting at Wednesday Club.

The first general public discussion of the exhaustive report on the survey of the St. Louis public schools, outlined to the Board of Education yesterday, will be held at 8:15 o'clock tonight at the Wednesday Club, Taylor avenue and Westminster place. The meeting, at which written questions may be submitted to the leaders of the survey staff, will be under auspices of a group of civic organizations led by the League of Women Voters.

Few questions were asked by the board members at a long session yesterday afternoon and last night, at which Dr. George D. Strayer, director of the survey, and his associates from Teachers College, Columbia University, pointed out salient features of their recommendations and findings.

One Immediate Result. The board, however, took one formal step in response to a survey proposal. It approved a change in an agreement with the PWA to eliminate new high-pressure steam boilers for Soldan and McKinley high schools, capable of operating electric generators.

The survey recommended low-pressure boilers and purchase of electricity for high schools. No decision was made on the policy of purchase or generation, but the change was left the way open for change in policy. As a result, new low-pressure boilers will be obtained for Harris Teachers College and six grade schools, due to the saving on the two high-pressure installations. The program, with total cost of $100,000, already covered four other grade schools and a high-pressure system for Sumner High School, where, it was said, the boilers were so bad there could be no delay.

Blumeyer and Thomas F. Quinn, were absent, but only about 20 other citizens were present, including representatives of labor and the teaching corps. Dr. Strayer expressed hope that the entire 237-page report would be mimeographed by sections for the benefit of interested persons.

Speakers for the Survey. Many of the points made by the survey staff were summarized in yesterday's Post-Dispatch. Those who spoke, besides Dr. Strayer, were: Nicholas L. Engelhardt, associate director of the survey; H. L. Caswell, William B. Featherstone, Willard S. Elsbree, H. H. Linn and John K. Norton.

Dr. Strayer declared the survey "continuous" and would be followed by full fruition under the existing administrative setups in advocating reorganization to concentrate authority, under the board, in a single executive, the superintendent. A bill for this is pending in the Legislature. Caswell said many of the educational questions raised were common to the whole country. Featherstone argued for more general attention in the schools to the task of creating good citizens. Elsbree discussed personnel problems.

St. Louis will have a population of 845,000 to 850,000 in next year's census and 855,000 to 862,000 in 1950, on the basis of present trends. Dr. Engelhardt predicted, adding that the white population would decline and the Negro population increase. As a result, he said, many adjustments in the use of school buildings will be required. Linn declared it was not proposed to have wholesale discharges in eliminating 107 superfluous janitorial and engine-room jobs, but only to avoid employing new men as natural vacancies occurred. Norton detailed financial recommendations, particularly for meeting the crisis of the next two years.

Superintendent of Instruction Henry J. Gerling, in a brief speech, expressed thanks for the impersonal, scientific handling of the survey and declared the results opened a fine new vista of educational progress. There was no waiving of the mere sake of finding fault, he said, but glowing over what needed to be said frankly, he said, calling the report a "charter" for administrative guidance hereafter.

After Max G. Baron, a board member, questioned the propriety of publication of the report in the press a few hours before the board convened, Vice-President Mark D. Eagleton said it was essential that the public be informed of the survey through the press. Enjoining the presentation by the survey staff, Eagleton asserted this would tend to aid in acceptance of the recommendations and predicted that a major part of the recommendations would be adopted in time. On motion by Eagleton, seconded by Baron, the board unanimously thanked the survey staff.

USE OF NEW ARMORY LIMITED TO CERTAIN MILITARY GROUPS

138th Infantry Drill Hall's Heat and Light Bill Too High to Permit Continued Meetings.

The new National Guard Armory on Market street and Spring avenue will be reserved for use by the 138th Infantry and certain allied military organizations, Director of Public Safety George W. Chadey said today. Other groups which formerly used the old armory will be asked to find other meeting places.

Cost of heat and light in the vast building is too high to permit general use of the armory, Chadey said. The drill teams of the Velled Prophet Organization and the Alhambra Grotto will be permitted to use it because they have met at the armory for many years.

About 20 groups formerly used the old armory for meetings and athletic events.

ANOTHER LONDON PAPER PUTS NEWS, NOT ADS ON PAGE 1

Telegraph Abandons Old Custom Now Retained Only by Times and Mail.

LONDON, April 25 (AP).—The Daily Telegraph, Conservative in politics, today departed from an old English custom and began publishing news on its front page. It explained that "the news now is so vital it obviously is wrong that the most important page should be occupied by advertisements."

The Times and the Daily Mail now are the only important London dailies with front pages solely devoted to advertisements. Until today the Telegraph devoted its first page to small ads and an "agency column" of personal notices.

Most prominent first-page display was given these headlines: "British Ambassador to Warn Hitler," referring to Sir Neville Henderson's return to Berlin; "Cabinet Heats Up Budget Proposals," and a New York dispatch headed, "Race to Finish the World's Fair This Week."

DEMOCRATS SPENT $11,258 IN ALDERMANIC ELECTION

City Committee Reports It Received $13,390—Voting Day Expense Chief Item.

The Democratic City Committee received contributions of $13,390 for use in the recent aldermanic election and spent $11,258, a report filed today with Recorder of Deeds John P. English says.

Chief item of expense listed was $8966 for "election day expenses." This was for workers at the polling places and averages about $11 per precinct.

The 14 aldermanic candidates each contributed $250; President William L. Mason gave $300, most of the Circuit Judges $25, and all the city department heads collected from employees.

The Citizens' Committee for Good Government, which backed Clifford Greve, Republican, for president of the Board of Aldermen, reported that it collected $2354 and spent $1330. Among the contributors of $100 were A. L. Shapleigh, A. D. Welsh, Joseph F. Holland and Edgar Monsanto Queeny. Greve filed a report showing that he had received $55 in contributions and spent $695.

School Board to Wreck Building.

A permit to wreck a vacant two-story building at 1322 South Third street, owned by the Board of Education, was issued at City Hall yesterday. The building, 50 years old, has been declared unsafe. It has store space on the first floor and living rooms above.

HOUSE PASSES 3-CENT GASOLINE TAX BILL

Reverses Yesterday's Action on Increase in Levy—Auto License Fees Cut in Half.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, April 25.—The Searcy bill increasing the State gasoline tax from 2 to 3 cents a gallon and cutting automobile license fees in half, which was defeated by a narrow margin yesterday, was passed by the House today on reconsideration by a vote of 86 to 47.

The bill now goes to the Senate, where it is expected to face stiffer opposition. A bill proposing a 4-cent increase in the gasoline tax in a Senate committee since early in the session. Proponents of the House bill, however, are confident the Senate will approve a 1-cent increase in the tax rate.

It has been estimated that the House bill, introduced by Representative Robert E. Searcy of Eminence, will produce between $1,500,000 and $2,500,000 additional a year for State road purposes. The State Highway Department says the 1-cent increase in the gasoline tax will produce about $6,000,000 a year additional, while the license fee reduction will result in a loss to the State of $3,500,000 a year.

Representatives of the Associated Petroleum Industries, an organization of gasoline and oil producers, estimate that the increased gasoline tax will raise only $5,000,000 to $5,500,000 a year. They contend that the higher tax will result in a curtailment of gasoline sales.

Last November the voters of the State overwhelmingly defeated a constitutional amendment proposing a 3-cent gasoline tax, but that proposition did not include a reduction of license fees.

Proponents of the bill contend that trucks will still pay the present license fee and that by paying a higher gasoline tax the State will be more adequately compensated for the damage they do to the roads.

STATE FILES NEW $5450 SUIT AGAINST DICKMANN COMPANY

Amended Petition Seeks Recovery of Commission and Profits in Straw Party Deals.

An amended petition in the suit of R. W. Holt, State Commissioner of Finance and Liquidator of the Lowell Bank, against the Joseph F. Dickmann Real Estate Co. for recovery of $5450 in commission and profits on resale of realty, was filed today in Circuit Judge Robert J. Kirkwood's court.

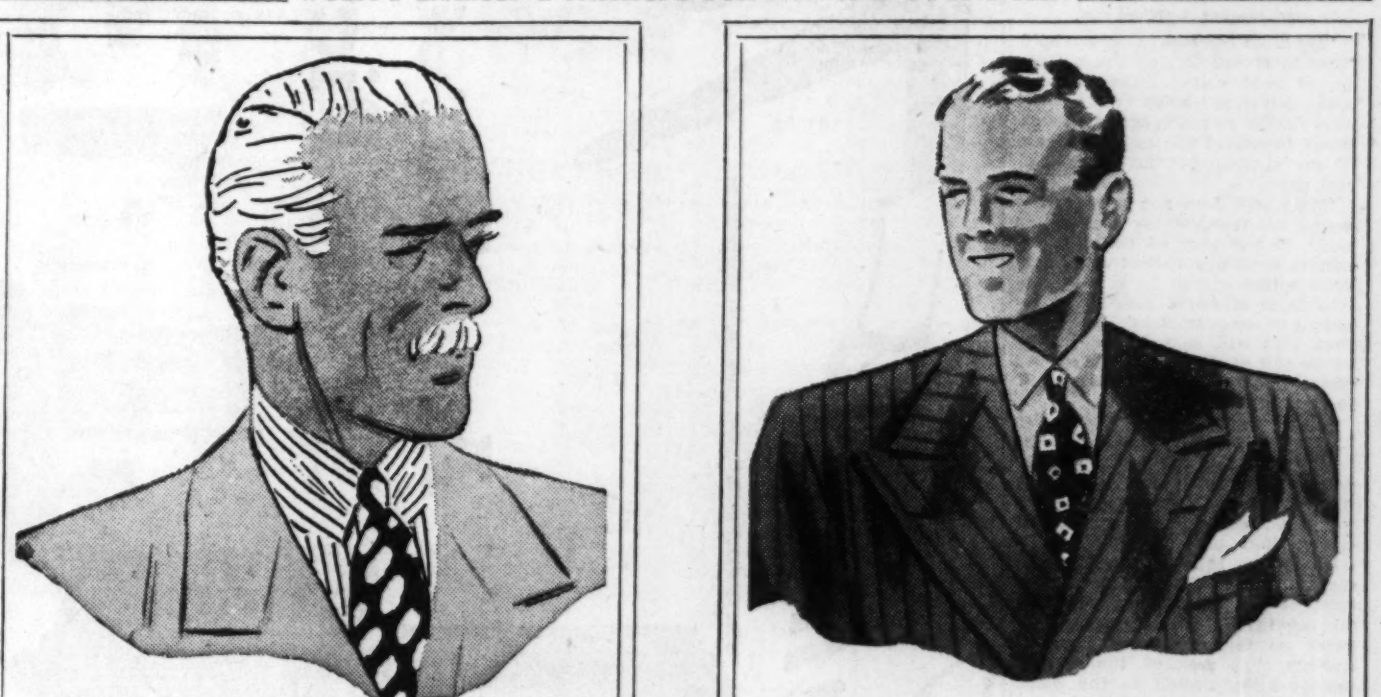

Judge Kirkwood sustained on April 11 a demurrer by the real estate company to the suit on the ground there was no cause for action. The amended petition states that the Dickmann Co., as agent for the Finance Commissioner, failed to disclose to the bank and to the court that Mrs. Cecilia Ross, to whom four parcels of real estate were sold for $19,000, was a straw party and that the actual purchaser was the Dickmann firm.

By concealing the fact that Mrs. Ross was acting for the Dickmann company, the company was guilty of a breach of its obligations to the bank, the petition alleges.

COCHRAN ASSAILS COLEMAN CHANGE IN FHA MEASURE

Denounces Its Substitution in Senate Committee for Amendment He Advocated.

By RAYMOND F. BRANDT
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, April 25.—Calling Miles Coleman, Deputy Administrator of the Federal Housing Authority, the real author of an amendment approved by the Senate Banking and Currency Committee relating to write-ups on FHA projects, Representative John J. Cochran (Dem.), St. Louis, said today he was not convinced the FHA authorities had undergone a change of heart and now wanted to do something they very strongly opposed.

Cochran declared he could not understand the so-called Senate amendment which was offered as a substitute for his own amendment to the pending FHA bill, and he characterized as "pure bunk" Coleman's interview in Sunday's Post-Dispatch that the Cochran amendment would deprive from 75,000 to 100,000 men of work.

Report Skirts Controversy.
In a report today on FHA-sponsored amendments, the committee made no reference to the controversy over write-ups, merely stating that the land value amendment was meant "to restate and amplify the conditions under which insurance may be granted on mortgages on rental housing projects."

"It is intended," the report stated, "to provide a check against any tendency to over-appraise land values, particularly in new neighborhoods, by requiring the owning corporation to provide out of its own funds a fully improved parcel of land and, through this means and otherwise, to assure a substantial investment on the part of such corporation, over and above the mortgage proceeds, which are limited to an amount not in excess of the cost of the structure, exclusive of public utilities and streets and miscellaneous expenses."

Within the committee, it has been learned, there was considerable opposition, led by Senator John G. Townsend (Rep.), Delaware, to altering the Cochran amendment. It is doubtful, however, that it will be an issue on the floor, the probability being that conferees will have to decide the final form.

Statement by Cochran.
"My main interest," Cochran said, "was in trying to stop the writing up of land values. The Housing Administration holds under the amendment no mortgage can be allowed to exceed the estimated cost of the structure. That is all well and good."

"This still does not prevent the promoters from having accepted as their 20 per cent of the cost excessive write-ups of land values, excessive fees and so forth. My contention is if sound assets are required in the promoters' 20 per cent then that will be reflected in the entire cost of the project and should certainly be reflected in the rentals to be charged."

"In an interview Saturday, Miles L. Coleman, the Assistant Administrator of FHA stated the Senate amendment, which should be called his amendment, for he submitted it, would accomplish more effectively what my amendment only tried to do. It is very amusing to me to find Mr. Coleman trying to improve my amendment when he was against it in every way, even going so far as to say I would destroy that part of the act. I cannot bring myself to the point where I can believe Mr. Coleman and the FHA have had a change of heart and now want to do something which they very strongly opposed."

Seeks to Prevent Write-ups.

"Coleman says my amendment leaves open many ways of getting around its bar on write-ups of land values. Well, if that be so and if FHA is in favor of write-ups as it has indicated and approved, then why not let my amendment stand?"

"I have been told St. Louis need not worry about getting any additional projects such as Manhasset Village and Lucas and Hunt. In other words, the FHA is through with St. Louis on projects of this kind. That does not change the issue with me. If it is wrong to permit write-ups of land values in St. Louis, it is likewise wrong to permit write-ups in other parts of the country. St. Louis is not the only city where such a policy has been followed."

"The Senate also reduced the 1 per cent premium provided for in the House bill on loans under title one, which has to do with repairs on homes. Under this title the Government has lost $25,000,000 or $30,000,000, but still when we try to provide ways to prevent this loss, the 1 per cent is changed to one-half of 1 per cent. FHA likewise is opposed to title one, while the banks of the country and material men are strongly in favor of it. The banks have taken all the loans under title one, while the big insurance companies and financial lending institutions take the mortgages guaranteed on the large projects."

"Mr. Coleman is in error when he says my amendment will be favorable to the high rental projects and the Senate amendment will be beneficial to the low rental projects."

Spending So Far for Armament "Plays Minor Part" in Dominion's Economic Life, By the Canadian Press.

OTTAWA, Ontario, April 25. — Finance Minister Charles A. Dunnington estimated in his annual budget message to the House of Commons today that Canada would have an over-all deficit of $55,666,000 for the fiscal year 1938-1939, which ended March 31.

He estimated that final returns would show revenues of $501,677,000—against expenditures of $557,343,000, which includes an estimated $25,000,000 loss on the guaranteed wheat price.

Dunnington said spending for armaments had "so far played a minor part in Canada's economic life" and that an economic revival in Canada had been more natural than elsewhere.

PUBLISHERS' HEAD SAYS AMERICANS BOW ONLY TO GOD

They Bend No Knee to Dictators Because Speech and Religion Is Unrestrained, He Asserts.

NEW YORK, April 25 (AP).—Americans "bend no knee to earthly dictators, but to God alone," James G. Stahlman, Nashville (Tenn.) publisher, said today, "because we, as a free people, have met and checked every effort to thwart or abridge freedom" of press, assembly, speech and religion.

"All of these freedoms are lost without a free press," the president of the American Newspaper Publishers' Association asserted at the dedication of a statue to freedom of the press at the New York World's Fair.

"An unfettered press," Stahlman said, "is the best guarantee of the preservation of the others. Liberty has perished where these fundamentals have been abridged or abolished."

Essentials of Democracy.

Stahlman pictured the four freedoms as "essentials of democracy" and as "the four children of that goddess, Liberty, standing at the entrance of New York harbor, whose great beacon casts its brilliant beam to guide the downtrodden and oppressed of all the world."

"What is the picture in many countries of the globe?" Stahlman said.

"In the parlance of the press, we see free speech cut off at the switchboard, freedom of petition and assembly chucked into the waste-basket, freedom of religion pried in the galley and freedom of the press thrown into the hell-box."

"In the rest of the world these four fundamentals of free institutions, enlightened civilization and individual liberty stand as barriers against temporal tyranny, intellectual enslavement and spiritual subjugation."

Reminder of Great Trust.

"As we dedicate this statue, let us not consider it simply as a memorial to a past of high achievement, but as a reminder that a free press is the great trust of unshackled journalism in service to and defense of the world of tomorrow."

"Let us, therefore, be alert to defend and certain to preserve all of the constitutionally guaranteed freedoms, to the end that government of the people, by the people and for the people shall not perish from the earth."

As the A. N. P. A. opened its convention today, publishers' headquarters said an optimistic outlook prevailed despite European war alarms and the resulting unsettlement in the United States.

"Wage and hour problems continue and there seems to be slight, if any, opportunities for the reduction of operating costs," the statement continued, "but the increase in advertising lineage and revenues introduces an added note of improvement."

Associated Press Expansion.

Expansion of the Associated Press among foreign newspapers was a salient point of the board of directors' report presented to the annual membership meeting of the press agency by President Robert McLean yesterday.

"Of particular interest," the report said, "is an important development for which the groundwork was laid several years ago. The world news report of the Associated Press has been made available through the Associated Press of Great Britain and on the continent. In Latin America, the Associated Press now delivers its report to 75 newspapers, compared to 29 two years ago."

The question of broadcasting Associated Press news on commercially sponsored radio programs was put before the board of directors for action. The membership meeting adopted a resolution urging the board to consider such broadcasts. This action followed authorization of an amendment to the association's certificate of incorporation, stating that henceforth one of its objects was to be the supplying of news not only to member newspapers but to "others entitled to the use thereof."

The resolution asking a "full hearing" concerning the broadcast of news was offered by Charles P. Manship of the Baton Rouge (La.) State-Times.

Associated Press Elections.

Robert McLean of the Philadelphia Bulletin was re-elected president of the Associated Press today. At the same time the board of directors elected E. Lansing Ray of the St. Louis Globe-Democrat as first vice-president and Stuart H. Perry of the Adrian (Mich.) Telegram as second vice-president. Secretary Kent Cooper, Assistant Secretary Lloyd Stratton and Treasurer L. F. Curtis were re-elected.

Six directors whose terms will expire this month were re-elected yesterday: W. H. Cowles, Spokane (Wash.) Spokesman-Review; George B. Longan, Kansas City Star; Robert R. McCormick, Chicago Tribune; L. K. Nicholson, New Orleans Times-Picayune; E. Lansing Ray, St. Louis Globe-Democrat; and Stuart H. Perry, Adrian (Mich.) Telegram.

TELEVISION SHOWS UP-TO-THE-MINUTE HISTORY TO EDITORS

New York Program Combines Views From Studio and Associated Press Offices.

NEW YORK, April 25 (AP).—Television, both in the studio and out, was demonstrated for the first time to an annual meeting of the Associated Press yesterday by the RCA-NBC system. The specially arranged visual broadcast was titled, "Looking at Tomorrow."

From the studio came a pictureized review of world affairs since Munich by Dewitt MacKenzie, foreign affairs writer. From outside, mobile equipment transmitted scenes from the Associated Press headquarters in its Rockefeller Center Building.

It was the first time that television had been utilized to depict history in the making as if it were a single news event.

The program was transmitted through the NBC station in the Empire State Building to 20 receivers installed in the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel several blocks away.

In visualizing Europe's story since Munich, news photos and scenes from the studio were combined for the studio presentation.

In the transmission from the Associated Press building, viewers saw teletypes in action as they brought in news from Europe to complete up to the minute the events outlined by MacKenzie; other teletypes relaying the same story over the country; portable wirephoto equipment transmitting the latest news picture.

SISTERS TO SHARE IN ESTATE OF UNCLE MISSING 9 YEARS

Mrs. Clara Heldman and Miss Thekla Schuricht to Get $4000 Each.

NEW YORK, April 25.—Mrs. Clara Heldman and her sister, Miss Thekla Schuricht, who live at 2119 McLaren avenue, St. Louis, each will receive about $4000 from the estate of their uncle, Edward Flebrich.

The net estate was appraised at $77,000 yesterday for transfer tax purposes. Specific bequests totaled about $2000. The sisters' share of the residue was one-eighth each. Flebrich was declared dead by the surrogate of New York County last July. He had been missing for nine years.

IRENE CASTLE SUITS DROPPED

Agreement Reached on Daughter; Divorce Action Still Pending.

CHICAGO, April 25 (AP).—All related litigation which followed the divorce petition of Irene Castle McLaughlin, former dancer, against her husband, Maj. Frederic McLaughlin, sportman, was dismissed in Superior Court yesterday.

The pair agreed that their 13-year-old daughter, Barbara, will be allowed to attend the school of her father's choosing, and Mrs. McLaughlin will not be held in contempt of court, as her husband had asked, because she kept their 8-year-old son, William, with her in Los Angeles last Christmas. The divorce suit itself is pending.

Secret Hearing on Mysterious
$6000 Trucking Men's Fund

directly or indirectly, to those contributing to the $6000 fund.

"To Protect Their Interests." At the secret hearing yesterday, the three witnesses told the subcommittee of the April 6 meeting, at which about 200 truck operators were present. They said Winning told the meeting that the larger operators had raised $2000 "for a lawyer" and that an additional $4000 was sought from the small haulers "to protect their interests in St. Louis."

Two witnesses said they contributed $25, and one $50. Two said they made their checks payable to R. W. Alfred and J. H. Williams as trustees for an escrow fund. The other said he made his check payable to "Cash." Alfred was manager of the Hayes Freight lines, St. Louis. Williams is manager of the Decatur Cartage Co., 1040 South Eleventh street, St. Louis.

Winning last week told the Post-Dispatch the $6000 fund was raised for "legitimate legislative expenses" in Missouri and Illinois, and denied that his organization intended to use the money to influence officials. He said the $4000 was placed in escrow, not for payment to any outside person, but for possible refunding to contributors.

He said his association was actively supporting proposed legislation in Missouri which would lower fees for common carriers, and contain a reciprocity provision under which Illinois trucks would be permitted to use Missouri highways without cost. Illinois now has such a law extending the same privilege to other states with reciprocity laws.

Sees Need for Inquiry. State Representative I. H. Streep, of Alton, chairman of the investigating subcommittee, said evidence obtained yesterday led the five-man body to the conclusion that a thorough investigation should be made.

In order to reach a large number of members of the Motor Truck Transport Association, he said the committee would hold sessions this week at Alton, Belleville or East St. Louis.

Missouri's present permit law provides that the city through which any common carrier covered by the act passes on its route shall receive a pro rata share on a mileage basis of the permit fee paid. St. Louis, as a terminus for many trucks from Illinois, would receive a considerable share of the fees. Permit fees, based on capacity of trucks, range from $25 to $500.

Held Up by Litigation. Enforcement of the law was held up by litigation until Nov. 28 last, at a temporary injunction ceased to be operative. Since that time, because of measures pending in the Legislature, immediate enforcement of the law has been a question of policy with St. Louis officials.

Senator Louis J. Menges of East St. Louis, in giving publicity to the charge that a fund had been raised for the announced purpose of influencing officials in Missouri to withhold enforcement said he was of the opinion that St. Louis and Missouri officials had no knowledge of the fund.

Trustee Says He Doesn't Know of Any Use of Fund.

J. H. Williams, one of the two trustees to whom the trucks made out their checks in contributing to the $6000 fund, said to a Post-Dispatch reporter today that he did not know what had been done with any part of the fund.

He said he had been employed, but had not verified this information, and would not state the name. "The trucks," he said, "are trying to get the Legislature at Jefferson City to pass the reciprocity bill, under which Illinois trucks have the same privileges in Missouri that Missouri trucks have in Illinois. If we can't get some such measure, I don't know how we can remain in business. I saw a statement that our organization was interested in some matter before the Illinois Legislature, too, but I don't know anything about that."

Explanation of Delay.

The action of St. Louis city officials in withholding enforcement of the truck permit law from Nov. 28 to the present, was explained by Edgar H. Wayman, City Counselor, and Frank J. McDewitt, Director of Streets and Sewers. They said a meeting was held in Mayor Dickmann's office in December, at which they discussed the matter with police officials and representatives of the State Highway Department. It was decided, they said, to enforce the ordinance, but McDewitt said police would need instruction and co-operation from the inspectors of his department. At that time, McDewitt said, his inspectors were busy with their annual inspection of taxicabs and service cars; so it was decided to defer the beginning of enforcement.

Enforcement Deferred.

Later, when the inspectors were free to co-operate with the police, another meeting was held, and it was then that the officials decided to defer enforcement until after the Legislature should adjourn. The reason, Wayman and McDewitt said, was that a measure was pending which, if passed, would be unfavorable to the city's interest, and that immediate enforcement might tend to throw support to that bill.

McDewitt said he had not known of any fund, or of any part taken by any outside lawyer, in the discussion of the truck permit law. He said that at a conference in relation to truck regulation, two years ago, Robert E. Hannegan, chairman of the Democratic City Committee, appeared, but that Hannegan, so far as he knew, had not taken any part in the recent discussions. Hannegan has represented Missouri truck owners.

S E C INTERVENES IN CASE OF HAMILTON-BROWN SHOE CO.

Judge Moore Takes Under Consideration Creditors' Application Also.

Applications of the Securities and Exchange Commission, and of a creditors' committee represented by a Boston law firm, for permission to intervene in the Hamilton-Brown Shoe Co. trusteeship proceeding, were presented to United States District Judge George H. Moore in chambers today.

The SEC application was filed by Joseph B. Duggan, chief counsel in the reorganization division of SEC, with headquarters in Chicago, and Edward McGuire, his assistant. Judge Moore granted their request for leave to intervene generally.

The creditors' committee, represented by Attorney J. Sison of Boston, asked for the appointment of a third trustee, in addition to the two now serving, but Judge Moore said he deemed this unnecessary. The committee stated that it represented shoe and leather firms in the Boston area with claims exceeding $417,000 against the Hamilton-Brown company. Judge Moore took under consideration the committee's request for leave to intervene generally. The present trustees are James K. Vardaman Jr. and John W. Lake.

LA GUARDIA CLOSES LEADING NIGHT CLUB TO STOP BRAWLS

Mayor Revokes License of El Morocco After Fight Over Bill.

NEW YORK, April 25 (AP).—In a move to end night club brawling, Mayor LaGuardia has ordered the cabaret license of El Morocco, a leading rendezvous of New York City's so-called cafe society, revoked.

John Perona, proprietor of the club, was summoned to a hearing today before Deputy Commissioner Cornelius O'Leary, who is investigating. The club operated last night under a temporary permit. Perona and an El Morocco customer figured in a fist fight in the night club last week after a dispute over the bill. Later in Magistrate's Court each dropped cross charges of assault. "A brawl is a brawl no matter where it happens," LaGuardia said. "It is a very serious offense for any person holding a license to punch, pummel, beat, strike, kick or otherwise abuse patrons, and it will not be toler-

SMOKELESS FUEL
RESEARCH URGED TO AID ILLINOIS

State Furnished Less Than 30 Pct. of Coal Used in Chicago in 1937, Legislator Says.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., April 25.—A report urging the House Appropriations Committee to report favorably a bill providing $300,000 for a two-year program of research by the State Geologic Survey to perfect commercial production of smokeless fuels from low-grade Illinois coal, was offered today by a subcommittee appointed last week to make a detailed study of the measure.

Representative Cal Johnson of Belleville, chairman of the subcommittee, told members of the committee it was imperative that Illinois coal be rendered smokeless in order to meet competition of high-grade Eastern and anthracite coals, and other smokeless fuels which were making constantly increasing inroads on the State's coal mining industry.

"Illinois coal fields furnished less than 30 per cent of the 29,000,000 tons of coal shipped into the Chicago district in 1937," Johnson told the Appropriations Committee. "Smokeless fuel was responsible for a reduction in Illinois coal consumption in that district of more than 12,000,000 tons as compared with 1933."

"This has carried with it corresponding loss in employment, related lines of business and transportation revenues and has increased relief requirements."

Loss in 14 Years.

In 1923, Johnson said, 99,714 miners, supporting 400,000 persons, received wages of $120,000,000 in producing 80,000,000 tons of coal. In 1937, he said, there were but 44,347 miners employed, supporting 180,000 persons, on wages amounting to $54,000,000 and producing only 51,000,000 tons.

Only 6 per cent of Illinois estimated coal resources of 200 billion tons determined as of 50 years ago had been mined, Johnson added.

"Further dire results are imminent as the result of smokeless fuel measures already adopted in St. Louis and Chicago," he told the committee. "Further measures are definitely contemplated by both cities. They promise to give smokeless fuels a still larger market unless something is done to put Illinois coal in the smokeless class on a competitive commercial basis."

Grounds for Hope.

"However, there are grounds for hope in this threatening situation. Highly promising results have been obtained by the Illinois Geologic Survey in processing Illinois coal and producing a smokeless product on a laboratory scale. These include briquets, domestic coke and more satisfactory stoker fuels. "Large-scale demonstrations such as would be made possible by this appropriation, in order to develop and perfect new equipment, are necessary. Such demonstration tests should hasten the commercial adoption of these processes by at least 10 years."

In an effort to expedite action, the same measure has been introduced in the Senate by Senator Louis J. Menges of East St. Louis. The measures were urged at the beginning of the legislative session by Mayor Bernard F. Dickmann and Smoke Commissioner Raymond R. Tucker of St. Louis.

Roosevelt Offers Reorganization Proposal

contest over who shall be top man in the new agency.

The HOLC was not mentioned in the President's message, but it was included in the reorganization plan itself.

Economies in Overhead.

The President noted that the reorganization act of 1939 had prohibited the abolishing of functions—that is, the basic services or activities performed—and therefore the savings to be effected must necessarily be brought out chiefly in the overhead administrative expenses of the agencies. Senator O'Mahoney (Dem.), Wyoming, was the sponsor of this prohibition.

Commenting on the smallness of the estimated saving, the President said:

"The chance for economy arises not from stopping work, but from organizing the work and the overhead more efficiently with other similar activities. Only the Congress can abolish or curtail functions now provided by law."

The President's plan would greatly extend his personal authority. Under the Budget Bureau would be directly under the executive office and not as now attached to the Treasury Department. With the Budget Bureau he would transfer to the White House office the Central Statistical Bureau, now an independent establishment.

Under the planning section, the President proposed to transfer the National Resources Committee, now under Secretary Ickes, to the executive office, together with Federal Employment Stabilization office, now in the Commerce Department. The new agency would be known as the National Resources Planning Board and its objective would be the conservation of human and physical resources. The President repeated his recommendation that the national resources body be given a permanent statutory basis.

Liaison and Personnel.

The President seemingly regretted that the Reorganization Act made it impossible for him to transfer to the executive offices the administration of personnel. He informed Congress, however, that he purposed to name one of the six administrative assistants authorized in the law to serve as a liaison agent of the White House on personnel management.

The enlargement of the functions of the executive office, he said, would give the President for the first time direct access to the three principal necessary management agencies of the Government.

"None of the three," he said, "belong in any existing department. With their assistance and with this reorganization, it will be possible for the President to continue the task of making investigations of the organizations of the Government to control expenditures, increase efficiency and eliminate overlapping."

As told in a recent Post-Dispatch Sunday article, the Bureau of the Budget has already been reorganized by Daniel W. Bell, formerly acting budget director, with the view to supervising all personnel and expenditures in the executive departments and in many independent agencies.

Speculation on Candidates.

As soon as the message and plan reached Congress there was speculation as to the possible heads on the Security, Works and Loan agencies, but the President played a shrewd political game in not mentioning whom he had in mind for these posts. It was also predicted there would be considerable lobbying by officials affected to retain their present status. This may take the form of undercover lobbying against the entire plan.

Each of the three officials would receive $12,000 annually and each would be empowered to have a $9,000 assistant.

Under the terms of the reorganization law, the plan will become effective 60 days after the report to Congress provided majorities in each house do not vote against it.

PRESIDENT'S PLAN AS HE EXPLAINS IT

In his message to Congress on reorganization, President Roosevelt said:

"In these days of ruthless attempts to destroy democratic government, it is badly asserted that democracies must always be weak in order to be democratic at all; and that, therefore, it will be easy to crush all free states out of existence."

"Confident in our republic's 150 years of successful resistance to all subversive attempts upon it, whether from without or within, nevertheless we must be constantly alert to the importance of keeping the tools of American democracy up to date."

"It is our responsibility to make sure that the people's government is in condition to carry out the people's will, promptly, effectively, without waste or lost motion."

"In 1883, under President Arthur, we strengthened the machinery of democracy by the civil service law; beginning in 1908 President Roosevelt initiated important inquiries into Federal administration; in 1911 President Taft named the Economy and Efficiency Commission which made very important recommendations; in 1921, under Presidents Wilson and Harding, we tightened up our budgetary procedure."

Previous Proposals.

"Presidents Theodore Roosevelt, Taft, Wilson, Harding, Coolidge and Hoover in succession strongly recommended the rearrangement of Federal administrative activities. In 1937 I proposed, on the basis of an inquiry authorized and appropriated for by the Congress, the strengthening of the administrative management of the executive establishment."

"None of all this long series of suggestions, running over more than a quarter of a century, was in any sense personal or partisan in design."

"These measures have all had only one supreme purpose—to make democracy work—to strengthen the arms of democracy in peace or war and to insure the solid blessing of free government to our people in increasing measure."

"We are not free if our administration is weak. But we are free if we know, and others know, that we are strong; that we can be tough as well as tender-hearted, and that what the American people decide to do can and will be done, capably and effectively, with the best national equipment that modern organizing ability can supply in a country where management and organization is so well understood in private affairs."

Changing Conditions.

"My whole purpose in submitting this plan is to improve the administrative management of the republic, and I feel confident that our nation is united in this central purpose, regardless of differences upon details."

"This plan is concerned with the practical necessity of reducing the number of agencies which report directly to the President and also of giving the President assistance in dealing with the entire executive branch by modern means of administrative management."

"Forty years ago in 1899 President McKinley could deal with the whole machinery of the executive branch through his eight Cabinet Secretaries and the heads of two commissions; and there was but one commission of the so-called quasi-judicial type in existence. He could keep in touch with all the work through eight or 10 persons."

"Now, 40 years later, not only do some 30 major agencies (to say nothing of the minor ones) report directly to the President, but there are several quasi-judicial bodies which have enough administrative work to require them also to see him on important executive matters."

"It has become physically impossible for one man to see so many persons, to receive reports directly from them, and to attempt to advise them on their own problems which they submit. In addition the President today has the task of trying to keep their programs in step with each other or in line with the national policy laid down by the Congress. And he must seek to prevent unnecessary duplication of effort."

Not Assistant Presidents.

"The administrative assistants provided for the President in the reorganization act cannot perform these functions of overall management and direction. Their task will be to help me get information and condense and summarize it—they are not to become in any way assistant presidents nor are they to have any authority over anybody in any department or agency."

"The only way in which the President can be relieved of the physically impossible task of directly dealing with 30 or 40 major agencies is by reorganization—the regrouping of agencies according to their major purposes under responsible heads who will report to the President, just as is contemplated by the reorganization act of 1939."

"This act says that the President shall investigate the organization of all agencies of the Government."

NOW—A Remarkable COMBINATION of MAGNESIAS

—that Fizzes like Champagne—Tastes like Lemonade—Acts like Citrate of Magnesia

SEE HOW FAST IT WORKS!

1. Avoid harsh laxatives. For headaches, stomach upset and sluggishness due to over-eating, drinking.

2. Take 2 teaspoonfuls Phillips' Effervescent Magnesia in 1/2 glass cold water before breakfast. Watch it sparkle!

3. Then see how fast you feel swell. Nausea, headache usually gone as you're off to work!

A new experience for you after unwise eating, after over-indulgence!

Straight from the world's leading makers of medicinal Magnesia products—the makers of Phillips' Milk of Magnesia—comes a combination of sparkling milk of magnesia with other magnesia salts that tastes like lemonade, that fizzes like a sparkling wine! And—it alkalizes and cleanses the intestinal tract in one double action!

Try this cooling, refreshing drink when you're "upset"—especially after over-indulgence in foods, alcohol, late hours... too much rich food! Results are amazing.

WHAT IT IS—HOW IT WORKS. It is called Phillips' Effervescent Magnesia. And the reason it is so effective is that it acts on your entire digestive system. First—almost instantly you take it, it "alkalizes"—neutralizes the excess stomach acids that make you feel nauseated and headachy. Sweetens your stomach like magic. Then—it cleanses the intestinal tract, much like Citrate of Magnesia does. Gives you an intestinal housecleaning. Thus it gives you the two-way action you need. Alkalizes... cleanses. Your distress vanishes like magic! Try it today! 30¢—all druggists.

COMMENT IN CONGRESS ON PRESIDENT'S PLAN

McNary, G. O. P. Leader, Friendly If Reorganization Spells Economy.

WASHINGTON, April 25 (AP).—Administration leaders expressed approval of President Roosevelt's suggested regrouping of Federal agencies, and some Republicans indicated they would support his plan if a closer study showed it would promote economy and efficiency.

Senator Barkley of Kentucky, the majority leader, told reporters that the plan "is very admirable, very constructive and very comprehensive."

Senator McNary of Oregon, the Republican leader, said: "It is a comprehensive plan of reorganization which challenges careful study. If the program spells economy and simplification in government it will be warmly embraced by the Congress."

Representative Michener (Rep.), Michigan, said: "To consolidate temporary with permanent agencies, if the temporary agencies are to be dispensed with in a year or two, is just to make more confusion, more extravagance and less efficiency."

Representative Fish (Rep.), New York commented: "I object strongly to putting the R.P.C. in charge of Jesse Jones, in the relief agencies that give away the people's money rather than lending it on sound collateral."

House and Senate authors of reorganization bills—Senator Byrnes (Dem.), South Carolina, and Representative Warren (Dem.), North Carolina, gave hearty approval of the President's proposal.

Chairman Cochran (Dem.), Missouri, of the House committee which sponsored the reorganization program, said the plan was "a step in the right direction."

Actor Everett Marshall Bankrupt.
NEW YORK, April 25 (AP).—Everett Marshall, actor and singer, filed in the United States District Court yesterday a voluntary petition in bankruptcy, listing liabilities at $28,318 and assets at $400.

WILLIAM M. LEISERSON NOMINATED FOR NLRB

Ohioan Named to Succeed
Donald Wakefield Smith,
Opposed by A. F. of L.

WASHINGTON, April 25 (AP)—President Roosevelt nominated today William M. Leiserson of Ohio to be a member of the National Labor Relations Board to succeed Donald Wakefield Smith of Pennsylvania.

Smith's term expired several months ago. He was given a recess appointment last fall, but the President did not submit his nomination to the Senate when Congress convened.

The American Federation of Labor opposed Smith, contending he was prejudiced in favor of the CIO. Leiserson was nominated for a term of five years dating from Aug. 27, 1938.

Leiserson in 1909 began public service on the New York Commission on Employer Liability and Unemployment. He became assistant director of research for the United States Commission on Industrial Relations in 1914 and chief of the Division of Labor Administration Act.

Named to Labor Board

WILLIAM M. LEISERSON

In the Labor Department in 1918. Later he became secretary of the first Government Labor Board during NRA days. Since 1934, Leiserson has been a member of the Mediation Board created by Congress to administer the Railway Labor Act.

STATE SENATE REJECTS 'SHOTGUN MOTION' BILL

Backers Again Lose Attempt to Extend Time Limit on New Trial Pleas.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, April 25.—A bill to extend the time in which motions for new trials could be filed in criminal cases from 10 to 30 days after the verdict was defeated in the Senate today, notwithstanding efforts of the "shotgun motion" group to pass it.

Their efforts to change the law by the enactment of the old "shotgun motion" provision having failed in several Legislatures through vetoes, the attempt this time for filing the motion, leaving in the law the requirement that the motion set out with particularity the reasons on which it was based, instead of in merely general terms.

The bill was first defeated last Thursday when it was explained on the floor that in many circuits in the State, in which only two terms of court are held a year, the proposed law would, in effect, arbitrarily prevent criminal sentences from being carried into effect for three months.

Senator L. N. Searcy of Eminence attempted today to have a reconsideration of that vote, but a point of order raised by Senator Allen McReynolds of Carthage that Searcy had not made his motion within the three-day limit fixed by the rules, was sustained by Lieutenant Governor Frank G. Harris. A motion by Searcy yesterday for a recess until today instead of the usual adjournment was held by Harris not to have circumvented the three-day rule. Harris was sustained by the Senate on an appeal from his ruling, and thus the bill was definitely killed.

The House ordered perfected yesterday by a vote of 50 to 40, a bill to require Prosecuting Attorneys to file with the court specific reasons for the continuance or dismissal of criminal cases without trial.

The measure, introduced by Representative Frank Lowry (Rep.), Cape Girardeau County, is designed to prevent a repetition of the notorious Charles Gargotta case in Kansas City, in which Prosecuting Attorney W. W. Graves continued 27 times assault charges against Gargotta and then finally dismissed the case.

MINISTERIAL ALLIANCE DENOUNCES BEER BILL

Calls Measure to Permit Churches to Sell Beverage Effort to to Scandalize Church.

Bills to permit the sale of beer by churches and fraternal and charitable organizations, recently passed by the State Senate and now pending before the House of Representatives, were denounced as an insult to intelligent people yesterday by the Ministerial Alliance of Greater St. Louis and the Bellefontaine Neighborhood Association.

The Ministerial Alliance resolution read in part: "We condemn the proposed acts as a wicked and surreptitious effort to scandalize the church by linking it with a nefarious business and to impart a false air of respectability to the disreputable liquor traffic."

The Bellefontaine Association sent letters to members of the House giving warning that if the bills were passed the association would take steps to have circulated referendum petitions for repeal.

TEMPORARY U. S. INJUNCTION AGAINST 5 ILLINOIS UNIONS

Court Bars Interference With Rural Electrification Project in Mason County.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., April 25 (AP).—United States District Judge Charles G. Briggie issued a temporary injunction yesterday restraining interference with a rural electrification project in Mason County.

The writ was issued on the petition of H. L. Cater, a Kansas City (Mo.) electrical contractor, who alleged he had been unable to proceed with the work because pickets had intimidated his employees.

Judge Briggie instructed attorneys to draw up an order directing the injunction at the Springfield, Jacksonville, Lincoln, Pekin and Havana, locals of the International Hod Carriers' Building and Common Laborers' Union and a group of local and international officers of the organization.

NO STATE FAIR INDICTMENTS

Grand Jury Says Executives Tried to Suppress Gambling.

SEDALIA, Mo., April 25 (AP).—A Pettis County grand jury that investigated reports of index shows, gambling and liquor sales at the Missouri State Fair last fall, reported yesterday that it found no basis for indictments.

"We have made a thorough investigation," the jury's report said. "It is our opinion that the fair authorities have made a conscientious effort to suppress gambling, and so far as we can ascertain there was no violation of the liquor laws. Regarding immoral shows we find such shows did exist and that they were conducted in a 'sub-rosa' manner, apart and aside from the regular shows. We do not believe that the State Fair officials had knowledge of these shows." The report added that fair executives gave assurance they would try to prevent such shows in the future.

KANSAS CITY OWES $475,000 LIGHT BILL

Major Item of Debt—Deficit Estimated at $1,750,000 to $2,000,000.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., April 25.—A $475,000 bill due the Kansas City Power & Light Co. for street lighting and other services represents the major single indebtedness against this city which has a deficit estimated currently at $1,750,000 to $2,000,000, although the precise figures may not be known until completion of an audit.

The bill represents $101,000 of an unpaid balance for March and April, 1938, and additional indebtedness of $374,000 incurred since last October. The city's fiscal year begins May 1. Taxes are collected the following month.

The bill embraces also light and heat for the City Hall, Municipal Auditorium and other city buildings. It includes a $15,000 item for pumping at a city Water Department substation. Interest charges have not been included or discussed and it is anticipated that none will be sought.

The original bill for March and April, 1938, was $120,000. H. F. McElroy, who recently resigned as City Manager, took care of $19,000 of it and paid the city's monthly power and lighting bills in May, June, July, August, September and October. But in November, the city couldn't pay, and it hasn't been able to do so since.

While no formal announcement has been made, it is learned that all creditors of the city may join in a friendly suit against the city with the ultimate object of obtaining the issuance of judgment bonds which might be sold to give the creditors their money.

Such a procedure was followed in 1926, during the administration of the late Albert I. Beach, a Republican Mayor. At that time the city owed the light and power company $455,000. The debt was wiped out through the issuance and sale of judgment bonds. Incidentally, while the suit was instituted as a friendly action, it subsequently was resisted, the creditors finally winning out.

A non-partisan audit of the city's affairs was made in 1924 and extended to 1926. A deficit of $4,739,903 was disclosed. It was the last such audit attempted until the present time.

BELLEVILLE POLICE-PAY PLAN

Faced with the necessity of complying with a new State law providing minimum wages of $175 a month for firemen and policemen, the Belleville City Council discussed a plan last night by which the police and firemen would be raised to that pay level but would work only nine months a year. Another meeting to consider the plan will be held Friday.

At present the minimum wage for firemen and policemen is $135 a month.

To Check Constipation Get at Its Cause!

If constipation has you down so you feel heavy, tired and dopey, it's time you did something about it. And something more than just taking a physic! You should get at the cause of the trouble.

If you eat the super-refined food most people eat, the chances are the difficulty is simple—you don't get enough "bulk." And "bulk" doesn't mean heavy food. It's a kind of food that isn't consumed in the body, but leaves a soft "bulky" mass in the intestines.

If this common form of constipation is your trouble, eat Kellogg's All-Bran for breakfast every day and drink plenty of water. All-Bran isn't a medicine. It's a crunchy, tasty cereal, nutritious and it will help you not only to get regular but to keep regular, day after day. Made by Kellogg's in Battle Creek. Sold by every grocer.

SLEEPY JUROR DELAYS POLL FRAUD TRIAL

Evidence on Count Can Go Before Jury, Court Rules
at Hearing.

Evidence on the count of ballots Nov. 8 in the Eighteenth Precinct, Twenty-first Ward, may go before the jury, Circuit Judge Charles B. Williams ruled today in the trial of the four election judges of that precinct on a charge of signing the returns in advance of the count.

As the trial was about to proceed, it was discovered that only 11 jurors were in the box. The missing member was Edward M. Shay, whose employer, a brewer, had not heard from him today, and who has no telephone at his home, 3868 Page boulevard.

A policeman sent to his home reported that he found Shay in bed, asleep. He added that Shay, awakened, explained he had overslept.

Wiget Recalled.

With 12 jurors present, Assistant Circuit Attorney Clyde Snider recalled Secretary Adolph C. Wiget.

of the Board of Election Commissioners to testify concerning the nature of the returns. Responding to renewed objection by Defense Attorney Patrick H. Cullen, Snider said he planned to throw light on the intent of the defendants.

Cullen's original objection had interrupted the testimony yesterday of Harry H. Sanders, Republican watcher, on the ground that the count, and a grand jury recount, could not enter this case. In hearing argument in chambers, he contended that they had been disposed of in earlier trials, when the two Democratic judges were acquitted of making false returns.

Today Sanders went on with his testimony that the 346 ballots were separated into three stacks and counted in 20 minutes after the polls closed, and that his demand for a more deliberate recount was refused.

The return was 223 straight Democratic, 83 straight Republican votes, with 40 split tickets. The grand jury found 190 Democratic, 99 Republican and 56 split.

Sanders related yesterday, as previously, that the Democratic judges, Frank A. Reader and Glennon Loehrer, suggested signing the tally sheets and poll books in advance, "to save time." He said they and the Republican judges, Milton C. Hippler and Fred B. Rehmund, signed then, and that later the clerks, Mrs. Alvera Hoffman and Miss Elizabeth Barry, signed under protest.

How to see TWICE AS MUCH on your trip to the SAN FRANCISCO WORLD'S FAIR

It's as simple as A, B, C

A Southern Pacific has Four Scenic Routes to San Francisco—Overland, Sunset, Golden State, Shasta—each passing through an entirely different part of the West.

B Pick the two of these routes that interest you most.

C Go to San Francisco on one of these routes and return on the other. Result: you see an entirely different part of the West each way. You see twice as much as you would by going and returning on the same route.

GO, for example, on Southern Pacific's luxurious Golden State Limited or the friendly Californian (all chair car and tourist train with 25¢-30¢-35¢ meals, stewardess-nurse, etc.), speeding over the direct Golden State Route to Los Angeles and San Francisco (or take trip to Carlsbad Caverns National Park), the romantic Mexican Border country, Southern Arizona, Los Angeles, Hollywood.

RETURN, if you wish, on our historic Overland Route, thru the High Sierra and Reno, across Great Salt Lake on the spectacular Lucin Causeway (30 miles from shore to shore) and over the Rockies. Many fine trains to choose from.

California Round Trips!

$61.60 in air-conditioned chair cars and coaches.
$70.10 in air-conditioned tourist sleeping cars (plus berth charge).
$85.60 in luxurious air-conditioned standard Pullmans (berth extra).

See both Fairs for only $90 round trip in chair cars, $135 in Pullmans (berth extra), starting April 28th.

ST. LOUIS POST-DISPATCH
STATE MARRIAGE HEALTH BILL
SUFFERS ANOTHER SETBACK

Measure Goes to Same Committee That Killed It Twice; Slight Chance of Passage.

Special to The Post-Dispatch.
JEFFERSON CITY, April 25.—
The House rejected yesterday a request by Representative Suggett Edwards of Audrain County that his marriage health bill be referred to the Social Security Committee instead of the Public Health Committee, which has twice previously killed the bill.

Edwards, who recently introduced the measure for the third time, said the Health Committee had handled the bill with "back-door methods." He wanted it sent to the other committee, of which he is a member, so he could see that it was given a fair hearing.

The bill, recommended by Gov.
Stark, would require a simple blood test to determine whether marriage license applicants were free from syphilis. The applicants would be required also to certify they had no other type of venereal disease.
The bill is considered only slight chance of passage, principally because it is opposed by rural legislators as to drastic.

Search for Ora Lewis, life-term convict, centered here today following the capture last night by St. Louis police of Christ Herdibu and Ted Larue, convicts, who escaped with Lewis Sunday afternoon from the lumber camp of the Jefferson City Penitentiary.

Herdibu and Larue were captured at 6124 Page boulevard, a store building, which police say has been used as living quarters by Joe Chouteau, a former convict. Lewis is believed to have fled in an automobile with Chouteau and the latter's wife and small son.

Patrolman Robert Egan, who walks a beat in the Page Boulevard District, received information about 8:15 o'clock that Lewis, armed with a knife and on a drinking spree, had been seen at Page boulevard and the Hodiamont tracks. Egan, with Detectives Edgar Welsford and John Dwyer, started a search of taverns in that neighborhood.

Noise Attracts Officers. The search led past the Page boulevard store building. Egan tried the front door, which was locked, and was attracted by a noise within. Whitewash on the front window prevented the officers from seeing inside, and they hurried to the rear. Herdibu, after locking the rear door, was assisting Larue, who was drunk, toward the alley. The officers did not recognize the escaped convicts, and Herdibu gave several fictitious names before admitting his identity. He said Lewis was in the store. Other policemen, called to the scene, broke in the door, but found no one. Two rooms at the rear are furnished as living quarters and showed signs of a hasty departure. A hypodermic needle found on a table belonged to Lewis, officers were told by Herdibu, who said Lewis had become a drug addict.

Larue, treated for alcoholism at City Hospital, was unable to make a coherent statement when returned to the Page Boulevard Station. Herdibu told police that he, Lewis and Larue walked away from the prison lumber camp Sunday afternoon and hurried to a highway, where Chouteau was waiting in his car. They drove to St. Louis, reaching the Page boulevard address about 8:30 p. m.

State Police on Lookout.
State highway patrolmen of Missouri and Illinois were instructed to be on watch for an old black Chevrolet automobile in which Chouteau is believed to have driven away with his family and Lewis. A car answering that description was seen on Lindbergh boulevard, in St. Louis County, last night. Police say Chouteau served a term in the Missouri penitentiary for robbery.

Ora Lewis, one of three brothers implicated in the murders of Patrolmen John McKenna and William Dillon in 1916, originally was sentenced to death with Joe Lewis for the McKenna murder. Joe Lewis' sentence was commuted to life imprisonment by Circuit Judge J. Hugo Grimm, the trial judge. Ora Lewis' death sentence was changed to life imprisonment by Gov. Frederick Gardner after the 1917 Legislature passed a law abolishing capital punishment in Missouri—a law since repealed. Frank Lewis, the third of the "Lewis boys," died in jail at Topeka, Kan., in 1918.

UNION APPEALS $700,000 SITDOWN DAMAGE AWARD

Hosiery Workers Contend Apex Strike Did Not Violate Anti-Trust Act.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

PHILADELPHIA, April 25 (AP).

Branch One of the American Federation of Hosiery Workers appealed today to the United States Circuit Court of Appeals from a strike-damage judgment of $711,832 awarded to the Apex Hosiery Co. by a District Court jury April 3.

Judge William H. Kirkpatrick refused yesterday to set aside the judgment or order a new trial.

The union contends that the 1937 sitdown strike was based did not violate the Sherman Anti-trust Act. Triple damages were awarded on the contention that the strike restrained interstate commerce in violation of this act.

Mrs. Morton asks for custody of a son, Thomas M. Morton, 2 years old. Morton, who resides at 7515 Buckingham drive, Clayton, entered his appearance to the suit, filing a general denial of the allegations. His wife is a daughter of Mrs. Thomas M. Morton, 501 Clara avenue.

JURY TO INQUIRE INTO PENDERGAST BUILDING FIRMS

Calls Secretary - Treasurer of Kansas City Boss
Two Construction Companies to Testify.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., April 25.—The Federal grand jury, pursuing its investigation of the business interests of Boss T. J. Pendergast, was expected to inquire today into the affairs of the building companies of which he is head.

Edward L. Schneider, secretary-treasurer of both the Ready Mixed Concrete Co. and the W. A. Ross Construction Co., who has been waiting under subpoena for several weeks, was summoned as the first witness. The Democratic boss is president of both firms.

Walter W. Head, president of the General American Life Insurance Co., St. Louis, returned to the District Attorney's office this morning to await a call to testify before the grand jury. He was asked to be present for the afternoon session.

To the Post-Dispatch reporter he said he had no comment to make on his being called. The Post-Dispatch told exclusively in last Friday's Home Edition that R. Emmett O'Malley, former State Superintendent of Insurance, asked General American for a $200,000 contribution to the Pendergast machine. Head has said that neither he nor any of his associates in General American has made any such payment.

Yesterday the jury devoted nearly the entire day to hearing two witnesses connected with the Kansas City Concrete Pipe Co., Gus Main, president, and Miss Leah Berry, his secretary.

Schneider told the Post-Dispatch reporter he owned an interest in the concrete pipe concern, but said the company had no ties with the ones in which he is an officer.

An affidavit asking recall of all elective city officials was filed with the City Clerk yesterday by Oscar B. Elam, a lawyer. Elam said the recent widespread disclosures by Federal and county grand juries of political and police corruption showed a condition brought about by "failure of the Mayor and other public officers to discharge their duties."

Signatures on petition of 20 per cent of the total vote cast for Mayor in the last election would be necessary to assure a recall election. Elam did not claim the backing of any organization.

GEORGIA RATIFIES BILL OF RIGHTS AFTER 150 YEARS

Joins Connecticut and Massachusetts in Belated Signing to Mark Union's 150th Anniversary.

WASHINGTON, April 25 (AP).—The Government received official word today that the last of the original 13 states has ratified the Bill of Rights.

Georgia's certification arrived at the State Department, not by stage coach or riders as most of the others came in, but by registered mail.

This year is the 150th anniversary of the Constitution, and those in charge of the observance thought it would be a good idea for those states which never had ratified the Bill of Rights to catch up with their neighbors. This meant Georgia, Massachusetts and Connecticut. Prodded, the Legislatures took action.

Former Deputy Constable James Little Testifies in Liquor Cases.

James Little, former deputy constable of St. Ferdinand Township, who pleaded guilty to charges of conspiracy to violate Federal liquor laws and was used by the Government as a witness against 12 others indicted with him, was placed on probation by Federal Judge George H. Moore yesterday for two years.

Trial of the other defendants, including Constable Andrew T. Sears and City Detectives Charles Harrington and William Cooper, resulted in convictions and sentences to jail and penitentiary terms.

FOUR KANSAS CITY NIGHT SPOT OWNERS FINED, CLUBS CLOSED

Plea of Guilty of Illegal Liquor
Sales and Gambling Licenses Revoked.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., April 25 (AP).—Four night spot operators pleaded guilty today to indictments returned more than a month ago by a grand jury summoned by Circuit Judge Allen C. Southern to investigate gambling and vice in Kansas City. Judge Albert A. Ridge assessed fines against the four and was informed the night clubs they operated—the Perkins Club, the State Line Tavern, the Reno Club and the Chesterfield Club—had been closed.

Gus Gargotta, who operated the Chesterfield Club, was fined $200 for a Sunday liquor sale and $150 on two charges of selling outside legal hours. Sol Sibel, Reno Club operator, was fined $300 for selling liquor a tillegal hours. R. G. Perkins, Perkins Club operator, paid a $250 fine on a gambling house charge and $250 for selling liquor at illegal hours. Mrs. Mildred Metzger McCoy, State Line Tavern operator, was fined $300 for selling liquor by the drink on a package license and $400 for keeping a gambling house. Covell R. Hewitt, Assistant Attorney-General, informed the Judge licenses of all four operators had been revoked.

BROWNS 7, TIGERS 2 (7 1/2 INNINGS); CINCINNATI 3, CARDINALS 0 (3 1/2 INNINGS)

Trout Knocked Out By Berardino's Double With the Bases Full

By James M. Gould
Of the Post-Dispatch Sports Staff.

DETROIT, Mich., April 25.—Young Jack Kramer, late of San Antonio, this afternoon started his first major league game when he pitched for the Browns against the Detroit Tigers in the second of the current three-game series. Kramer, only 21 years old, was opposed by Paul Trout, a young right-hander who last season won 22 and lost six for Beaumont in the Texas League.

With Beau Bell injured, Joe Grace played left field for the Browns and "Red" Kress replaced Don Heffner at short. Glenn caught Kramer.

The estimated attendance was 8,000.

Giesel, Kolls and Rue were the umpires.

The game: FIRST — BROWNS — Almada was called out on strikes. Grace struck out. McQuinn grounded out to Greenberg.

TIGERS — McCosky singled. Walker tripled, scoring McCosky. Gehring grounded out to McQuinn. Walker scored. Greenberg struck out. Fox was safe on a low throw by Kress. Clift threw out Tebbets. TWO RUNS.

SECOND — BROWNS — Gehring threw out Kress. Clift flied to Walker. Hoag flied to "ox."

TIGERS — Rogell walked. Croucher forced Rogell. Kress to Berardino. Trout hit into a double play. Berardino to Kress to McQuinn.

THIRD — BROWNS — Berardino grounded to Rogell. Glenn struck out. Kramer flied to McCosky.

TIGERS — McCosky lined to Hoag. Walker singled. Gehring flied to Hoag. Greenberg flied to Clift.

FOURTH — BROWNS — Almada batted a hit off Trout's glove for the Browns' first safety. Grace singled Almada to second. McQuinn sacrificed. Rogell to Greenberg. Kress singled, scoring Almada and Grace. Clift singled Kress to second. Hoag singled off Croucher's glove, filling the bases. Berardino doubled, scoring Kress and Clift, and putting Hoag on third. Gill replaced Trout on the hill for the Tigers. Glenn was intentionally passed, again filling the bases. Kramer bunted into a double play. Gill to Tebbets to Greenberg.

FOUR RUNS.

TIGERS — Fox was called out on strikes. Tebbets singled. Rogell fouled to Glenn. Croucher popped to Berardino.

FIFTH — BROWNS — Almada grounded to Gehring. Grace doubled. McQuinn singled, scoring Grace. Kress singled McQuinn to second. Clift hit off Gill's glove to Gehring who threw him out. Hoag singled, scoring McQuinn. Verardino flied to Walker. THREE RUNS.

TIGERS — Cullenbine batted for Gill and popped to Berardino. McCosky doubled. Walker flied to Hoag. Gehring flied to Grace.

SIXTH — BROWNS — Lynn pitched for the Tigers. Glenn popped to Rogell. Kramer grounded to Croucher. Almada flied to Rogell.

TIGERS — Greenberg singled. Fox hit into a double play. Clift to Berardino to McQuinn. Kress threw out Tebbets.

NEBRASKA KENNELS LEAD IN FUTURITY

ABILENE, Kan., April 25 (AP).—Lowland Kennels of Tecumseh, Neb., took the lead in the National Cursing Association's spring futurity yesterday, placing four of its five entries in the second round. The starting list of 91 was out to 23.

The Lowland dogs, all littermates, were Whitehead, Van, Red Gaul and Bouncing Dick. Lawrence Gross of Kansas City, Mo., placed three of his four entries—British Dancer, Dancing Justice and Dancing Mother.

The popular favorite to win the $800 first money was Smoky Valley, owned by Roy Rutland of Waco, Tex. Twenty-three dogs remained after the first round of the futurity consolation.

Henry R. Riley, national riding champion in 1930, arrived at Fairmount Park yesterday, but in a different role—that of owner and trainer.

Hardly resembling the youngster who was such a Middle West sensation almost a decade ago that he was signed up by the fashionable Greentree Stable, Riley brought in a one-horse stable of Har-Jos, and announced he would try to win a purse or two during the 27-day spring meet, starting Saturday, May 6.

Riley is still young in years, being but 24, but he has lost his famous baby face, and his frame has grown immensely. Where he formerly tipped the beams at 92 pounds, Riley now is a well developed lad of 145 pounds, and "still putting on weight," he said.

It feels good to come back to Fairmount Park, said Riley yesterday after putting away his "stable" with as much care and exactness as if attending Seabiscuit or War Admiral.

55-YEAR-OLD BOWLER LEADS A. B. C. SINGLES

CLEVELAND, O., April 25 (AP).—James Danek of Forest Park, Ill., took first place in the American Bowling Congress today with 221-275-284-780.

This score, the best of several thousand so far posted in the current tournament, was expected by many observers to give Danek the singles championship in the meet, which ends next week.

Danek, 55, is a veteran of 35 A. B. C. tournaments, he said. His score showed into second place Don Johnson of Indianapolis, who scored 720 a few days ago.

A stellar final game of 1065 hosted the Markson Furniture of Syracuse, N. Y., into ninth place in the team division last night.

The quintet posted a score of 2013 last night, spanning the maples for 987 and 991 in the first two games.

Two other changes were recorded in yesterday's rolling. Erv Roloff of Milwaukee collaborated for a ninth place 1316 in the doubles. Roloff had a 639 and Roghan a 677. Victor Shewman, 29-year-old postman from Ann Arbor, Mich., collected 703 in the singles, giving him a ninth place tie with Don Johnson of Indianapolis.

STARK'S POLICE BILL COMES UP FOR TEST TONIGHT

Supporters Will Seek to Have It Reported Out at Once After Final Hearing for Both Sides.

SENTIMENT FOR IT HAS BEEN GROWING

Legislature Expected to Act Before Adjourning; Otherwise, Special Session May Be Called.

By CURTIS A. BETTS
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, April 25.—The first legislative test of strength between Gov. Lloyd C. Stark and the tettering Pendergast political machine on the Governor's bill to take control of the discredited Kansas City Police Department will come tonight after the House Judiciary Committee holds its final hearing on the bill.

On this committee of 43 members rests the responsibility for speedy action in reporting the bill to the House. If the committee acts on the bill tonight, the way will be open for its rapid progress toward passage in the House. If action is delayed, the committee will be playing into the hands of the machine.

Representative H. P. Lauf of Jefferson City, chairman of the committee and an opponent of the bill and of the Governor, said today he did not expect to have an executive session following the hearing, and that he did not know when a session to act on the bill would be held. There were indications, however, that the committee would assert itself, override the chairman, and report the bill out tonight.

Machine Advised Delay. When the bill was introduced, a month ago, which was prior to the indictment of Boss Pendergast and R. Emmet O'Malley, former Superintendent of Insurance, on Federal income tax fraud charges, the Pendergast machine conceived tactics of delaying it to be advisable, the manipulating leaders of the opposition hoping that other legislative business would be completed and the session adjourned before the bill could be put to a vote.

Representative William B. Weakley of Pike County, handling the bill for the Governor, shrewdly offered no objections to the plans of Lauf and Representative John D. Taylor of Keytesville, chief of the obstructionists. Weakley expected that the Federal grand jury inquiry would come to a head with indictments, which he well knew would weaken the opposition.

The bill was introduced March 27, but instead of holding an early hearing, Lauf set the hearing two weeks off, April 11, when the proponents were heard. In the meantime Pendergast and O'Malley were indicted and details of the extensive machine graft became public, giving the bill an impetus which it would have lacked if the hearing had been held within a few days of its introduction.

Supporters Gained for Bill. The following disclosure of the huge narcotic ring, operating with police protection in Kansas City, there have been almost daily developments for the last three weeks showing the close alliance between major crime and politics, all of which have steadily added to the number of the supporters of the bill.

At the hearing Weakley produced a mass of evidence in support of his argument that there could be no clean-up of crime conditions as long as the police were under the control of local politicians.

A week later the opponents were heard a group of citizens who ignored major crime and the grand jury revelations, appearing to discuss "home rule" theoretically.

The final hearing is set for tonight, with two hours allotted to the opponents and one hour to the proponents. Then, so far as the committee is concerned, there will remain only its action on the bill.

Weakley, realizing that the bill delays up to this time have favored his cause, further delays will be dangerous, is prepared to demand immediate action. If the committee does not act promptly, his course undoubtedly will be to introduce a resolution in the House instructing the committee to return the bill to the House for its consideration. That would bring a little time left for action.

Owing to the fact that the Legislature is rapidly clearing its calendar and probably will be ready for adjournment in four or five weeks, the House bill is growing short. The House has held it in committee for a month, and its passage in the House can hardly be expected in less than two weeks. Then it will go to the Senate, where further attempts at delay may be expected.

With all the talk of adjournment before the bill reaches a vote in the Senate, there are few who be-

Members of House Committee Who Will Pass on Police Bill

JEFFERSON CITY, April 25.—THE 43 members of the House Judiciary Committee, all lawyers, on whom rests the immediate responsibility for the passage of Gov. Lloyd C. Stark's anti-crime bill, taking control of the Kansas City Police Department from Boss Tom Pendergast and the gamblers' syndicate, are:

Democrats—H. P. Lauf, Jefferson City, Cole County, chairman; Claude Arnold, Puxico, Stoddard County; J. Jules Brinkman, 1318 Shenandoah avenue, St. Louis; Eugene W. Couey, Sedalia, Pettis County; B. E. Cowherd, Paris, Monroe County; Paul E. Deslaur, Linn, Osage County; Robert L. Ewing, Nevada, Vernon County; J. Arthur Francis, Ironton, Iron County; James R. Garrison, Warrensburg, Johnson County; Paul K. Gibbons, Edinburg, Knox County; Thomas J. Gill, Kansas City; W. O. Hanks, Joplin, Jasper County; Samuel C. Hayden, Kansas City; Carl J. Henry, Butler, Bates County; Lawrence Holman, Moberly, Randolph County; John T. Hughes, 656½ Tholomee avenue, St. Louis; Edgar J. Keating, Kansas City; Howard R. Maness, Doniphan, Ripley County; Daniel O'Bryan, Charleston, Mississippi County; Morris E. Osburn, Shelbyville, Shelby County; Albert T. Parrish, Springfield, Greene County; V. E. Phillips, Kansas City; Clarence E. Reed, Monett, Barry County; Maurice Schechter, 5590 Maffitt avenue, St. Louis; William R. Smart, Kansas City; Roscoe C. Summers, Harrisonville, Cass County; John D. Taylor, Keytesville, Chariton County; C. P. Turley, Van Buren, Carter County.

Republicans—Henry R. Aubrey, Branson, Taney County; William Barton, Jonesburg, Montgomery County; D. Raymond Carter, Seymour, Webster County; Hartwell G. Crain, Webster Groves; Howard Elliott, 7601 Gannon avenue, University City; Charles Farrar, Buffalo, Dallas County; G. P. Hays, Ozark, Christian County; Randall R. Kitt, Chillicothe, Livingston County; T. Victor Jeffries, Lebanon, Laclede County; C. F. Junge, Cole Camp, Benton County; Frank Lowry, Cape Girardeau, Cape Girardeau County; Joe H. Miller, Carrollton, Carroll County; Wayne V. Skankard, Neosho, Newton County; Gladys B. Stewart, Ava, Douglas County; Randolph H. Weber, Poplar Bluff, Butler County.

It is the expectation of the administration forces that at least 15 of the 28 Democrats and all 15 of the Republicans on the committee will vote for a favorable report on the bill.

ARGENTINE SAYS NAZIS TRIED TO BACK REVOLT BY HOUSE COMMITTEE

Offered Arms and Money in Patagonia, Witness Tells Investigators.

BUENOS AIRES, April 25 (AP).—Testimony that Nazi agents offered arms and money to organize an anti-Government revolution in Patagonia was given by Dr. Alberto J. Grassi before Federal Judge Miguel Jantus' investigation of alleged Nazi activities in Argentina, today.

Dr. Grassi, head of a committee which seeks the elevation of Patagonia from territory to provincial status, said that Nazi agents apparently sought to turn to their own use his dissatisfaction over the lack of action to make a province of Patagonia, 257,058 square miles of potentially rich plateau in Southern Argentina.

Aguiles D. Igobone, chairman of the Friends of Patagonia Association, also described what he called Nazi activities in Patagonia. The organization of anti-Nazi Germans in Argentina (Das Andere Deutschland) issued a long statement charging that Nazi agents sought to control Germans in Argentina in order to use them "as instruments of Nazi imperialism" and urging the public not to confuse Germans involved in National Socialist activities with those who have "absolute loyalty to Argentine laws and institutions."

lieve the Legislature will adjourn without acting on it. The pressure from constituents of members has been growing, and the general view is that it would be political suicide for scores of members, and even for the Democratic party, for the Legislature to evade the issue.

If the plan of the machine forces should be successful, there is little doubt that the Governor would immediately convene the Legislature in special session with the police bill as the only question before it. As a last resort, he could cause the circulation of initiative petitions and take his fight directly to the voters.

The Governor has earned a reputation as a fighter who never quits, and the politicians are convinced he will take advantage of every legal means to win his Kansas City crime fight. The last thing the politicians want is a State campaign with Pendergast and Kansas City crime as the issue. For that reason, if for no other, the Governor's supporters have no doubt that the police bill will go to a vote in both houses before adjournment.

It appears virtually certain it will pass the House with between 90 and 100 votes of the total membership of 150. In the Senate the vote is expected to be much closer, unless, as some members are predicting, further grand jury developments cause a complete collapse of the opposition.

Kansas City Mayor to Urge Advantage of Home-Ruled Police. KANSAS CITY, Mo., April 25 (AP).—Mayor Bruce B. Smith said today he would not attend the third hearing on the Kansas City police bill before the House Judiciary Committee in Jefferson City tonight.

Mayor Smith said he would send a letter to Representative H. P. Lauf, chairman of the committee, stressing the importance of the Police Department in collecting certain taxes necessary to the proper operation of the city government. The letter also will state that the home-ruled police are more efficient and energetic in collecting motor car licenses and cigarette taxes than State-supervised officers.

Indications this afternoon were that there will be no organized attendance by residents of Kansas City at tonight's hearing.

WAGE-HOUR REVISION BY HOUSE COMMITTEE

Exemption of 'White Collar' and Certain Farm Workers Approved.

WASHINGTON, April 25 (AP).—The House Labor Committee approved a series of amendments to the wage-hour law today to liberalize its application to agricultural labor and grant numerous exemptions.

By a vote of 16 to 2, it accepted an omnibus bill which would, among other changes, exempt so-called "white-collar" workers receiving as much as $200 monthly from both the wage and hour provisions of the act.

With several last-minute revisions, the committee also approved an amendment to the agricultural section which would permit workers engaged in certain specified operations to work 60 hours weekly throughout the year and exempt them from all regulation as to hours for a total of 14 weeks in any year. Workers engaged in so-called "first processing" of fresh fruits and vegetables, including washing, grading and packing prior to further processing, would be granted total exemption.

Before adopting the agricultural amendment, the committee voted down, 14 to 7, a proposal by Representative Barden (Dem.) of North Carolina, to afford all agricultural labor complete exemption from both the hours and wages provisions of the law.

Generally the law provides for a maximum 44-hour work week and a minimum wage of 25 cents an hour.

There was some conjecture whether Elmer F. Andrews, the wage-hour administrator, would approve the committee's action on the agricultural section. He originally recommended that the specified operations affected be granted a 56-hour week with a 12-hour day, plus the 14-week complete exemption.

The law was six months old yesterday, and various modifications were before the committee for final approval. Some had administrative backing.

Speaking specifically of Barden's amendments and generally of the whole set, Andrews said "a six-months' old baby is pretty young to put out in a storm."

Andrews discussed the Barden amendments with the committee yesterday. It was learned he said the changes would exempt about 700,000 persons from the act and then he added, "I could hardly go along with that."

Barden would exempt agricultural operations up to the point of storage for tobacco, compresses for cotton and mills for corn and wheat.

SENATE WARNED OF LOSS OF TRADE IF JAPANESE WIN

Neutrality Witness Says Invaders' Victory Would Remove U. S. Export Market in China.

WASHINGTON, April 25 (AP).—The Senate Foreign Relations Committee heard a warning today that the future of American trade, prosperity and security were involved in the Far Eastern conflict between China and Japan.

Dr. Walter H. Judd, former medical missionary to China, asserted that final Japanese victory over China would remove the Chinese market from the field of American exports and at the same time make Japan an unbesieged competitor in all other markets.

Indorsing the proposal by Chairman Pittman (Dem.), Nevada, to revise the Neutrality Act to place arms, ammunition and implements of war on a "cash and carry" basis, Dr. Judd also urged legislation to punish treaty violators by economic sanctions.

In House Committee hearings on neutrality legislation Harold J. Tobin, professor of international law at Dartmouth College, testified it might be advisable to exempt Latin America completely from any application of neutrality legislation.

Members of the Senate committee are considering calling State Department officials for confidential advice on neutrality legislation. Committee members expect public hearings to be concluded this week, but members are far from agreement.

Administration officials, including President Roosevelt and Secretary of State Hull, were reported generally to be in favor of whatever neutrality legislation would give the United States the "greatest reasonable degree" of latitude in foreign affairs.

HOUSE COMMITTEE DIVIDED OVER TAX REVISION THIS YEAR

One Group Takes Position There Can Be Little Relief With Reduction in Levies.

WASHINGTON, April 25 (AP).—Members of the House Ways and Means Committee, where revenue legislation originates, said today they were divided over the advisability of tax revision at this congressional session.

One group, remembering President Roosevelt's statements that any changes must result in no loss of revenue, has taken the position that there can be little tax relief without reduction. The other group contends revision is necessary to stimulate business.

Legislation extending excise taxes on such things as automobiles and admissions will be held back until the Ways and Means Committee completes a study of Social Security amendments.

WARSAW PRESS INDICATES BETTER FEELING FOR RUSSIA

Papers Report Polish-Soviet Relations Are Now 'Developing in Quite a Satisfactory Manner'.

WARSAW, April 25 (AP).—An apparently inspired article appearing in the Warsaw press today was viewed by foreign diplomats as signaling better relations between Poland and Russia.

It was believed that there are more negotiations between Britain and Russia to stiffen the French-British front against Germany and Italy had reached a development satisfactory to Poland.

The Kurjer Warszawski said Polish-Soviet relations "are developing lately in a quite satisfactory manner. It must be pointed out, in regard to the Soviet, that an increasing understanding of Poland's interests is now being observed."

GERMANY RECALLS AGENT HEARING SABOTAGE CLAIMS

Action Interpreted in Washington as Meaning Berlin Has Little Hope of Winning World War Cases.

WASHINGTON, April 25 (AP).—Dr. Victor Huecking, German member of the Mixed Claims Commission, has quit the tribunal in the midst of its deliberations over World War sabotage claims, it was learned today, and has been recalled permanently to Berlin.

An authoritative source said his departure "undoubtedly meant that Germany had scant hope of winning the cases." This source saw in the recall a possible German move to prevent any decision in the near future.

The claims total $50,000,000 and were made by Americans against Germany as a result of the destruction of a railroad terminal at Black Tom, N. J., and an arsenal at Kingsland, N. J., before the United States entered the World War.

Huecking's departure from the commission in January after final arguments on an American claimant's case, a decision made in Hamburg in 1930, which exonerated Germany for the losses.

No Effect on Outcome. It was authoritatively said in American quarters that the absence of a German member at this stage of the litigation, however, would have no effect on the ultimate outcome.

The German Embassy would not comment other than to say that Huecking had returned to his country to "take up anew" his duties as a Justice of the Court of Appeals of Prussia and would not return to the United States.

Becomes Dictator of Bolivia

PRESIDENT GERMAN BUSCH

LA PAZ, Bolivia, April 25 (AP).—Bolivia received with apparent calm today 35-year-old President German Busch's assumption of dictatorial powers as "the only road toward reinvigorating the republic internally and internationally."

A presidential manifesto yesterday condemned Leftist and Rightist "extremist tendencies" threatening to split the country and said Busch "saw with pain" Nazi and Fascist "tendencies which are not acceptable in this country."

Under his government, Busch said the nation's program would be based on "economic and social needs, not intellectual or sentimental adhesion to political theories in vogue."

BOLIVIA APPARENTLY CALM UNDER DICTATOR

Government Head Seeks to Nip Nazi and Fascist Tendencies, He Says.

LA PAZ, Bolivia, April 25 (AP).—Busch, a veteran of the 1932-1935 Chaco war with Paraguay, said political opportunists had attempted to take advantage of the situation during and after that conflict.

All factions had been given "ample liberties," he said, but the result had been "increased passions" and a series of revolutionary attempts.

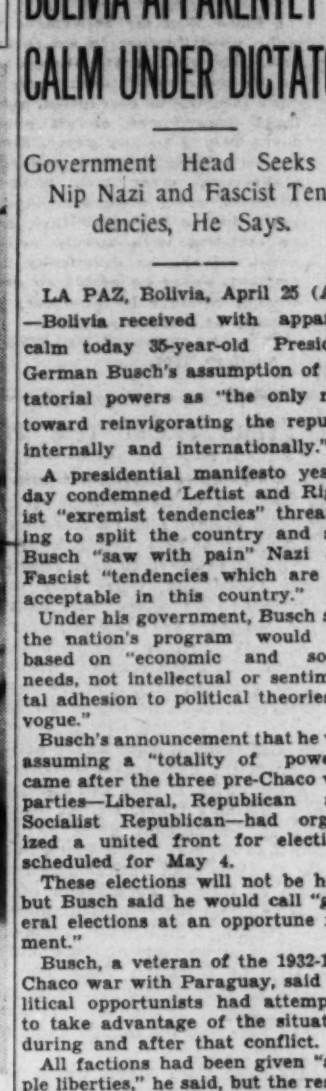

"My duty and conscience tell me that I should not only state the facts that have taken place, but also act to cure it radically," the manifesto said.

"Starting today I began an energetic and disciplined government, convinced that this is the only road toward reinvigorating the Republic internally and internationally."

Busch rejected the resignation of the Cabinet which went through the formality of quitting to give him a free hand.

$53,177,928 NET
FOR GENERAL MOTORS
Earnings for March Quarter
Compare With $8,234,017
Year Ago.

NEW YORK, April 25 (AP).—General Motors Corporation reported today net earnings for the March quarter of $53,177,928, or $1.18 a common share, compared with $8,234,017, or 14 cents a share, in the like quarter of 1938.

Alfred P. Sloan Jr., chairman, commenting in the report on industry in general, wrote: "There does not appear to be economic justification for any drastic decline at this time, unless the economic situation is affected adversely by events from without due to political difficulties abroad. It appears likely, however, that the trend of business will be influenced by day to day occurrences."

Accompanying the report was a statement on "our business picture," which said in part: "As national income increases, our present burden of taxes will become relatively easier to carry. The production of goods and services in amounts sufficient to raise the national income to former levels—and above—is therefore the most important task before us today."

"Even recognizing the added overhead expense which enterprises must carry in the future on account of increased taxation, it might fairly be said that the possibilities that exist for business could well lead to a prosperity beyond anything we have yet experienced."

"However, our ability to capitalize such an opportunity absolutely depends upon the manner in which we manage our economic affairs. For instance, capital ought to be assured that the national policy is favorable to the profit motive."

"Our tax structure should be reconstructed, as the direction of encouraging enterprise, of permitting a freer movement of capital as between enterprises, and of avoiding unduly burdensome levies on profits and returns from investments that are fairly earned."

WILMINGTON, Del., April 25 (AP).—General Motors Corporation will spend about $10,000,000 for new plant investment during 1939, John T. Smith vice-president, told stockholders at the annual meeting today. This compares with $17,000,000 in 1938 and over $60,000,000 in 1937. Smith pointed out this was small in comparison with preceding years because of extensive plant additions in 1937.

Corporation earnings in dollars and cents per common share in most instances, with corresponding periods in the preceding year, reported by the Associated Press and other sources, will be found in the following table:

JONES & LAUGHLIN 3-MONTH LOSS IS $376,325

PITTSBURGH, Pa., April 25 (AP).—The Jones & Laughlin Steel Corporation and subsidiaries reported for the first quarter of 1939 a net loss of $376,325 as compared with a net loss of $1,147,506 in the corresponding quarter of 1938. Gross earnings for the quarter were $1,731,600, a sharp upturn from gross earnings of $761,667 in the last quarter of 1938 and $711,538 in the first quarter of 1938. The company's net loss in the last quarter of 1938 was $1,129,556.

COTTON MARKET CLOSES 2 TO 10 POINTS LOWER

NEW YORK, April 25 (AP).—May liquidation and Bombay selling depressed cotton futures in the late trading today. Irregular most of the session, prices turned down just before the close to finish with net losses of 2 to 10 points.

Support centering mostly in near months came principally from spot houses, trade interests and local operators. Selling from Bombay sources and commission houses turned part of the list downward.

Switching was active on differences which tended to widen. Around mid-afternoon prices were 5 higher to 2 lower with May ahead most at 5.34c. July at 6.06c was 2 net lower.

Bombay sold near positions 2 point purchases of October.

Futures closed 2 to 10 lower.

Case Records of a PSYCHOLOGIST

By Dr. George W. Crane
Of Northwestern University

CASE L-192: Recently I received a letter from one of the editors of a Milwaukee paper. He told me that he was helping Prof. Fitzpatrick, dean of the graduate school at Marquette University, who was preparing a book on the educational value of the newspaper. Dean Fitzpatrick wished to quote a number of these Case Records and cite this column as an example in point. Naturally, I was only too happy to co-operate. Let me pay tribute here to the splendid co-operation I am receiving elsewhere from college professors and high school principals, school superintendents and other educators, who have a true vision of modern education, and are valiantly struggling to improve the curriculum.

The average person leaves the school system at the age of 16. The average length of life today in America is 58 years. For 42 years, therefore, the average adult has no formal contact with an educational institution. The average person, unfortunately, doesn't even go to church, where he could receive at least one educational address every week. It is shocking but true that this is a pagan nation, for over 50 per cent of our entire population are not members of any church!

MOREOVER, THE average person does not subscribe to a magazine. And he does not employ his radio for much besides dance music and athletic broadcasts. Where does he get his further enlightenment and education? He reads his newspaper. His wife reads it. And his children even at the age of 8 begin deciphering the blurbs in the comics.

The newspaper is almost the sole educational contact that the average American ever makes for the 42 years after he drops out of the school system. Nowadays, progressive editors realize this grave responsibility that devolves upon them. A newspaper must be something besides a combination of sport page, comics and headlined sex cases.

Your newspaper is truly your local university. It offers you current history, political science, economics through the market pages and financial column, perhaps a medical column, a comprehensive psychology column, a domestic science article, as on cooking, needlecraft and the like, a book review, music and art section, etc.

It even has its athletic department in the form of the sport section, and its humor on the comic pages. Just analyze the most popular and most significant courses in your state university and you'll observe a very close parallel between the "curriculum" of the newspaper and that of the American college. Newspapers render a service most readers, therefore, seldom realize, and they greatly buoy up the morale of your community.

The Corte Dance Turn

By Arthur Murray

From His Book, "How to Become a Good Dancer"

CHAPTER II.
SO FAR I have told you only about dancing in a forward, backward or sideways direction, and I have not taken up the matter of turns at all. It is perfectly possible to go around the floor in the line of direction without using any turn steps, but they are exceedingly useful in getting out of a tight corner, and they can be beautiful steps in themselves.

Many experienced dancers will use a waltz turn in the fox trot. This type of turn will be explained when I take up the waltz, but right now I want to introduce a turn that is typical of the fox trot, and that can be used as an interesting turn variation in a fox trot routine. It is called the corte turn, and comes from the tango, but it is perfectly adapted to the fox trot. Here is how it is done. The first two steps are fast, one beat to each step. The last two slow, two beats to each step.

Man's part:
1. Quick chasse to left.
2. Draw right foot up to left.
3. Take a long step back on the left foot, turning the toe toward the right, as shown in Footprint 3 of the diagram. Then put your weight back on your heel as you bend your left knee.
4. Bring right foot from position 2 to position 4. Shift your weight forward now on your right foot, but keep right leg straight—don't bend right knee.
Girl's part:
1. Quick chasse to right.
2. Draw left foot up to right.
3. Step straight forward and to the right with your right foot, turning the toe toward the right, as shown in footprint 3 of girl's diagram. Bend right knee and at the same time left foot about two inches off floor, pointing your toe as you—
4. Bring left foot from position 2 to position 4. Then shift weight back to your left foot, keeping left leg straight.
Girls are advised to practice man's part before learning their own.

Father's Part In Training of Small Child

He Must Support His Wife's Position if Obedience Is to Be Achieved.

By Angelo Patri

"MAMA, I want a drink." "Bitsey, you've had two drinks already. You are to shut the door and go to sleep. Now remember, no more bathroom, no more tucking in and saying goodnight. You are only trying to keep out of bed and you are naughty. I will not come up again tonight."

Mother tucked Bitsey in once more, kissed her good-night for the fourth time, closed the door and went downstairs. Scarcely had she seated herself when Bitsey's voice floated in shrill whines down the stairway. "Ma-ma—I need the covers put on me. They slipped off me."

"Put them on the best you can. I am not coming up again tonight no matter what you want."

"All right for you. When Daddy comes he will bring me a drink of water. You see."

Mother was amazed, but she kept silent and soon heard Bitsey getting back into bed. Soon after that daddy came home. He was pulling his chair up to the table when Bitsey called, "Daddy, please come and give your dear Bitsey a drink of water."

Daddy looked pitifully at mother. "No. Don't go. Hold out this time and we will not have this bother the rest of our lives. I've had it for the past couple of hours now. She will soon go to sleep if she finds you do not answer."

"Maybe she is really thirsty. I can't stand it. The poor little thing, thirsty and lonely."

"I have attended to her. She needs nothing but a lesson in obedience which she is getting. If you go to her now I will leave her bedtime routine to you from now on. I mean just that. Your part is help. That's all you can do, but it is all I need. If you don't, I can't go on. You'll have to take over the job yourself."

Daddy looked stunned. Bitsey begging, his wife, her mother, sternly announcing what he must do and not do. He sat down in silence in the silence of the room, picking at his dinner. And in the silence Bitsey fell asleep. Later, when they both stood looking down into the crib, he said, "You know, I believe you are right. She didn't need anything."

A SPEED DEMON SETTLES DOWN

Peter DePaolo, Former Auto Racer, Now Worries About Fast Drivers on Highways

By Clarissa Start

IF, in 1925, you were of an age to read the sports pages, you read about Pete DePaolo. You saw pictures of him, covered with grease, climbing out of a low slung racing car after completing the grueling 500-mile speedway classic at Indianapolis in the then astounding time of 101.13 miles an hour. Pete was the man of the year in '25 as far as sports fans from 9 to 90 were concerned. The roar of the motor was in everyone's blood, auto racing was at a fever pitch, and DePaolo was breaking enough records to win $180,000 in prize money.

People who remember Pete DePaolo the "wall smacker," as he was known when he cracked up five times in his first six starts, probably wonder if he has smacked his last wall as yet, for five winners of previous Indianapolis classics were killed in later races. They might be surprised to know that the daring demon of the raceways has settled down to being a business man, a family man, who writes for the newspapers, speaks at civic clubs, plays golf, and worries about fast drivers on the public highways.

Not nearly as stodgy as all that might sound, DePaolo has changed little externally, as we noticed when we spoke to him last week, on his short visit to St. Louis, and later heard him speak at the North Side Optimists' luncheon. He is slightly grayer, perhaps, but size and smile are unchanged. He is still the friendly "Little Wop" he calls himself.

"My last race was at Barcelona, Spain, in 1934," he recalled as he obligingly moved around his hotel room at the behest of the cameraman, talking part of the time over his shoulder. "And it, nearly was my last race, too. That was the time I cracked up to keep from hitting three kids. You see, they drive through the streets in Europe."

"Don't say that. It's harder than speedways, but it takes more of this up here," tapping his forehead significantly. "Anyway, we practiced for an hour the day before the race and the police had shut the streets off. I still had 15 minutes to go and the job handled so well—that is, the car drove so well—I wanted to take all the time I could get. But as I went around that last sharp turn there were three kids right in front of the radiator and I swerved the car right into a wall. I was unconscious 11 days and blind for five weeks after they'd transferred me to the American Hospital in Paris. I did a lot of thinking the four months vacation I spent there and I thought, Pete, old boy, you've gone as fast as 185 miles an hour in a car and here you're going 50 and almost kill yourself. So then and there I said adios to racing."

DePaolo's career in racing which ended in that skin of the teeth escape, began in 1920 when he became a mechanic for his uncle, the famous Ralph DePalma.

"I had wanted to be a mechanical engineer to some kind and had my eye set on one of the technical colleges, but there were eight little spaghetti benders at our home back East, so I went to work."

Hence his retirement from racing was, of necessity, broken. When Italo Balbo, Italian flying ace, visited his country, he persuaded DePaolo to return with him and participate in the Tripoli sweepstakes, so effectively that DePaolo got

PETER DE PAOLO—THEY CALLED HIM THE "WALL SMACKER."

"fighting mad" and made up his stakes, but the racing fever was do anything. It's safer to go 140 miles an hour than to go 65 on the Indianapolis race in which he and the Paris hospital. In the hospital, he took to another field. He wrote a book, "In the room next to where Stephen Benet wrote 'John Brown's Body,'" he says proudly.

"Of course, my book's no 'John Brown's Body.' I thought it was a screwy idea, in fact, but it is the only book on the history of racing ever written."

RACING itself, DePaolo believes, is on the downward trend.

"Manufacturers used to have to use the race tracks as proving grounds for new mechanical features of their cars, but the manufacturers have their own proving grounds now and can tell the races what parts to use. The situation is just reversed. The Indianapolis is still the classic of the world, and I believe, the greatest sporting event in this country. But racing isn't good business. The only tracks outside of Indianapolis are these county fair dirt tracks where kids risk their lives and get a bag of peanuts for their trouble."

"At that," he grinned, "you're probably as safe as you are on the highway, no matter how many chances you might take in racing. On the speedway you at least know you know he's qualified to go to the fast. But on the highway you might be in back of almost any Joe Balloon and he's likely to

Hypnotism as Treatment in Nervous Cases

Method Coming Back Into Favor Among Conservative Physicians.

By Logan Clendening, M. D.

WE have spoken of the power of suggestion in medical treatment and in the ways of symptoms, and of health. The most powerful agent in creating suggestion is undoubtedly hypnotism.

I note by articles in the medical press that hypnotism is coming back into favor among conservative physicians as a method of treatment for nervous ills. For many years it has had a general air of charlatanism about it, and for that reason a really valuable means of treatment has fallen into disuse.

Psychoanalysis, the psychotherapeutic method most often discussed today, is by no means applicable to all patients. The patient must be fairly intelligent to be psychoanalyzed, and sufficiently educated to understand the method and purpose of analysis. He must want to get well (this sounds like a contradiction, but the fact is that most neurotic patients do not want to get well).

In any case psychoanalysis is expensive in time, energy and money, for an analysis takes at least a year. And, even so, it is not always successful. The object is to allow the patient to analyze his own emotional life in order to understand what are his unconscious impulses. After this unconscious material has bubbled over, the physician leads his patient into a reintegration of his personality. But not all analyses end in this theoretically ideal manner, because the patient's unhappy personality may be too solidly founded to allow transformation.

Hypnotism offers a good approach to many neuroses because it allows the physician to affect the subconscious. This is accomplished without the patient building up conscious defense reactions or awareness of what is happening.

There are a number of misconceptions about hypnotism that should be corrected. The hypnotist does not need to be a strong personality, or one with strong will as opposed to the weak will of the subject. In fact, will has nothing to do with the induction of hypnosis.

The mechanism of normal sleep and of hypnotism, are the same—both are states of dissociation. Neither the will nor the memory are lost during hypnosis. However deep the hypnosis, the subject will remember everything that happens if he is told to do so.

The hypnotist does not possess any strange power over the subject who has once been hypnotized, but it is possible to reinduce hypnosis with a very insignificant signal. This may be a stare, a click of the fingers, a written word or a word spoken in a whisper. But the signal must be agreed on beforehand. Even a telephone call or a signal over the radio will do.

Hypnotism simply makes the subject more suggestible. With the proper technique and a conscientious physician there is no telling what symptoms can be removed by hypnosis. It must not be suggested that an arm or a leg which is really organically paralyzed can regain movement, but long-standing functional paralysis which has resisted all other forms of treatment may recover immediately under hypnosis. A case of amnesia may be awakened into reality. An insomniac may begin to sleep like a baby. Even organic pain may be mitigated.

I do not believe that you have ever said anything like this because it is certainly not like your teachings. But I wish you would print something to settle the argument for once and for all.

Answer: A trained nurse is introduced always, just the same as any visitor or member of the family: "Mrs. Jones, Miss Brown." Or "Mrs. Jones, may I introduce Miss Brown?" A child's nurse, who is a domestic employee, is introduced conversationally, either, "Mary (or Nurse, or Nanna, or whatever the child calls her), Mrs. Jones had come to see the baby." One who has lived long in the family is introduced with greater affection: "Mrs. Jones, this is our Mary."

CHAPTER FIFTEEN.

JEFF's first wild plan was to resign immediately from the Tranco company, to marry Andrea, to go away with her to a ranch he would buy in New Mexico. To forget Mrs. Emery, to forget Andrea's contract. To snatch the happiness they both wanted right away. Forget the future as they would Mrs. Emery and the contract. Forget everything but themselves.

Sam Flory let Jeff rave on. He listened quietly while Jeff was speaking. Sam knew Jeff well. They had been students together at college. They had started out in their chosen profession together, side by side they had worked at that profession now for eight years. Sam loved it. Jeff loved it. Both of them were content when they were in the field. Both of them would have been wretched in any other kind of work.

Joyce listened, too, as quietly as Sam, for she knew Jeff almost as well as Sam, knew his mind better as a woman does sometimes. Now and then while he was talking about his plans, walking up and down the living room floor, she looked at Billy sitting on the couch near her.

His head was buried in his arms, and there was a motionless despair about his healthy, growing body. She could have touched him, but again she knew something within her told her, that he wanted to be alone in his grief.

That he would resent any show of sympathy, even from his sister. After a while he got to his feet and walked out onto the porch. She saw him stagger through the open door, and fling himself on the steps. Joyce turned to Jeff. "It isn't as if two years were a life time. Two years isn't long to wait."

Jeff said, impatiently, "I'm not so sure that in two years things will be any better than they are today. Rogers didn't give me any promises. He simply hinted."

"In two years it may be the same thing over again, a hold up on Andrea's contract. The same merry-go-round."

"There's your future, too, Jeff. Sam said evenly. "There's the living you'll have to make for Andrea. There's the living you can make in what you know how to do."

"You have a good living with Tranco, you'll have a good living as long as you do the work you're doing. I don't know about ranching—you don't know anything about it. If it were I—"

"It isn't you, Sam. It's Andrea, and it's I, and mixed up in both of our lives is Mrs. Emery. You haven't got any Mrs. Emery. You're married, you're together, you and Joyce—"

"It is you, Sam. It's Andrea, and it's I, and mixed up in both of our lives is Mrs. Emery. You haven't got any Mrs. Emery. You're married, you're together, you and Joyce—"

He went out after that and Sam and Joyce remained. Billy stayed on the porch, sitting where he had been before.

When Joyce came later and set a glass of cold lemonade before him, he looked up dazed as he took the glass. She saw that he had been crying, and that he had wiped away his tears with his dirty hands.

"I have to go back and tell Sis," he whispered. "She's waiting." Brown eyes had the same wistful quality his sister's had as they met

SYNOPSIS

ANDREA MARQUAND, 21, loves Jeff. Jeff Westcott, handsome geologist who is vacationing in a cabin near Emery park. Mrs. EDYTHE EMERY, wealthy owner of the estate, in Andrea's patroness and has a contract whereby she has financed Andrea's education for eight years as well as paid all the expenses of the Marquand family. Mrs. EMERY, in return, Andrea must allow Mrs. Emery to mold her life, prepare to her about in opera. ALBERTO RICCO, Andrea's voice teacher, and KYLE WATSON, Mrs. Emery's secretary who secretly loves Andrea, believe the girl is ready for her career. She does Andrea's hair. Mrs. LILIAN MARQUAND, her mother; HELEN and RAY, her twin brothers who study medicine; and BILLY, 15, a younger brother, in whom she confides. She tries to tell her about the situation in South America. In the late afternoon she returns home fearing the consequences of her holiday. Jeff calls Mrs. Emery and tells her he wants to marry Andrea and assume her debt. Mrs. Emery asks him to sing for her. That night Marie, the cook, and Mrs. Emery have a private conversation. Mrs. Emery's secretary, Mrs. ROGERS, tries to tell Jeff Andrea's contract for $700,000 and when Jeff suggests Andrea and he can leave for South America, Rogers reminds him Mrs. Emery is an influential stockholder in the company for which Jeff works.

Joyce's. The spread of the fine forehead was the same, and the way he lifted his head.

He drank the lemonade, put the glass down, and started off slowly, his shoulders hunched over, and Andrea told him as she expected him to be. He took it well, she thought.

Joy watched him until he was out of sight, then she turned to Sam, but Sam was smoking in the way he had—

"He didn't want to be disturbed."

"I hope—Andrea is sensible," she said to herself as she went back to her knitting. To Joyce there was only one thing to do, and that was to wait for the two years until the expedition was over.

At first Andrea wasn't sensible. She was as mad, as wild as Jeff, and they sat planning together on the terrace of the guest house, for he had been admitted to the grounds on orders from Mrs. Emery.

FOR an hour they discussed the plans that seemed so glowing and so beautiful. The ranch which they would buy, Jeff had seen it when he had worked in New Mexico several years before. Two hundred acres near Taos. A hilly, windy plateau, cold in the winter, the land covered with snow, but the air fine and clear and fresh. Warm in the summer.

A cabin on it, really a shack, but they could fix it up, and it would do for them until they could build something better.

Fine fertile soil, good grazing land. They could be alone there, they could do what they wanted to do. There were trees, a forest of them, on the slope that would be theirs, too, and there was a spring on the property.

Jeff remembered the spring well, how he had come upon it one noon when he was thirsty and tired, and how sweet the water tasted.

He had enough money to buy the property, and to carry them for a few years until the land made them a profit. He would wire a dealer in Santa Fe right away with an order to buy.

Andrea saw the land, and the cabin as she had seen the Velho. She saw the trees, and the little spring, and she felt the clear cold winter air. For an hour she forgot the Park, she forgot Mrs. Emery.

It was when Jeff got a notebook from his pocket, and started to sketch what he remembered of the boundaries of the land, that she was back again on Mrs. Emery's guest house terrace, looking out on the rose garden which was so familiar to her.

One of Mrs. Emery's gardeners was putting about the flowers. She hadn't heard the clicking of his pruning shears while Jeff was talking, but she did now.

She put her hand over the sketch he was making. "We can't do it, Jeff. We have to wait. It's the only thing to do."

"You're afraid!"

"She shook her head. "No, I don't think so, but it isn't right to you, for you—if you understand what I mean."

"If it's right for you to give up what you have, your singing, your studying, it's right for me."

"It's different for a man, giving up what he wants to do, what he's trained to do. With a woman, it doesn't matter. She doesn't care. She follows her man any place he goes. We can wait, Jeff! I can wait! I feel differently about it now."

"I don't feel differently. I don't care what I do as long as you are with me. There's the chance that Rogers was pulling a bluff."

"If the Tranco people decide they don't want us, I should be able to get something to do with another firm."

"Mr. Rogers never piling any bluff. When she says something, she means it. She never forgets any threat she makes."

They wandered off the terrace, and through the little grove of trees near the house. Twilight came, then darkness, and when Jeff left the grounds at midnight, it was settled. He and Andrea were to wait two years. Jeff didn't agree that it was

The Sixth Ideal.

The sixth great ideal, to which the world is slowly going to come in the long and painful process of its development, is world consciousness, the realization that all men ARE brothers. We will some day apply, not merely discuss, our be-

CUT YOURSELF A BIG SLICE OF SPRING SUNSHINE
We all know that spring sunshine is what we need. It's our old friend Vitamin D that makes sunshine so important.
There are other ways of capturing that vital vitamin by careful meal planning and that's what I mean when I say "cut yourself a big slice of spring sunshine." Here's an interesting menu to prove my point:
DOWN ON THE FARM DINNER MENU
Stew, Country Style
Baked Potato
New Cabbage Salad
Hot Rolls
Apple Butter
Coffee
You'll note that milk is an important ingredient in the three recipes I'm giving you. And remember, the Vitamin D content of Pevely Irradiated Homogenized Milk is greatly increased by irradiation. So, if you want the greatest amount of sunshine, use Pevely Irradiated Homogenized Milk.

STEW, COUNTRY STYLE
2 pounds beef, cubed for stew.
2 tablespoons lemon juice.
1/2 cup flour.
1 cup mushrooms.
1 teaspoon salt.
1 teaspoon chili powder.
2 tablespoons Pevely Butter.
1 cup Pevely Irradiated Homogenized Milk.
Sprinkle lemon juice over the beef cubes and stir well; sprinkle with salt and chili powder, then roll cubes in flour, mixing well so that all the flour is taken up. Brown on sides in melted butter, add hot water to cover and let simmer 1 1/2 hours, adding more water when necessary. Then add mushrooms and milk and simmer 30 minutes longer. Serve piping hot.

GARDEN SPECIAL
1/2 cup fresh lima beans.
1/2 cup carrots, diced.
1/2 cup new green beans.
1/2 cup new corn.
4 tablespoons Pevely Butter.
2 tablespoons salt.
2 cups Pevely Irradiated Homogenized Milk.
Place vegetables in a pan and cover with one cup water (use pan with a tight-fitting lid). Cook at high heat until steam is created, then turn to low and cook without stirring lid for 20 minutes. Melt butter in a saucepan and mix in flour and salt, then add milk gradually and cook until thick, stirring constantly. Pour all the vegetables into this sauce and blend together, being careful not to break the tender vegetables.

PRUNE BREAD PUDDING
2 cups Pevely Irradiated Homogenized Milk.
1/2 cup sugar.
1/2 cup Pevely Butter.
1 cup bread crumbs.
1/2 teaspoon ground cinnamon.
1/2 teaspoon ground nutmeg.
1/2 teaspoon allspice.
1 teaspoon vanilla.
1 teaspoon salt.
2 eggs, slightly beaten.
1 cup dried prunes.
1/4 cup prune juice.
Measure prunes before cooking. Soak, boil until tender without the addition of sugar. Drain off juice, remove pits and chop prunes very fine. Add 1/4 cup prune juice to chopped prunes. Scald milk, add butter, bread crumbs, sugar, spices, salt and vanilla. Add eggs and prunes and turn into a buttered 9-inch casserole. Set in a pan of hot water and bake in a 325° F. oven for 45 minutes. Serve hot or cold with Pevely Cream, plain or whipped.

FROM ME TO YOU
There are many short cuts I simplify food preparation that you would like to pass along to you. In fact, whatever you're cooking problems may be, please believe me, I'm at your service. Just drop me a line. Address Prudence Pevely, care Pevely Dairy Company, Grand and Chouteau, or phone GR. 4400.

Cotton Frock

THE newest, daintiest and most desirable of matron's cotton frocks! Women who are indoors and outdoors, busy as bees, all morning and every morning... will be overjoyed with this comfortable, good-looking Anne Adams style that has no waist seam and they'll find Pattern 4138 fun to make, for its sewing instructor tells how to go about all details! The front panel is that bias, slim-the-figure type every matron is so fond of. The collar provides a lovely frame for face and neck, whether it extends down into the bodice or not.

Although the United States called him Grover Cleveland, the former United States President was known as "Big Steve" in Buffalo, N. Y., for his baptismal name was Stephen Grover Cleveland. Thomas Woodrow Wilson granted his first name in public life. Until he went to West Point, Ulysses S. Grant was called Hiram Ulysses Grant. How

2 cups Pevely Irradiated Homogenized Milk.
1 cup sugar.
1/4 cup Pevely Butter.
1 cup bread crumbs.
1/2 teaspoon ground cinnamon.
1/2 teaspoon ground nutmeg.
1/2 teaspoon allspice.
1 teaspoon vanilla.
1 teaspoon salt.
2 eggs, slightly beaten.
1 cup dried prunes.
1/4 cup prune juice.

Measure prunes before cooking. Soak, boil until tender, without the addition of sugar. Drain off juice, remove pits and chop prunes very fine. Add 1/4 cup prune juice to chopped prunes. Scald milk, add butter, bread crumbs, sugar, eggs and salt and vanilla. Add prunes and prune juice. Mix thoroughly.

RIVERFRONT FUND

Comptroller General Rules
Congress Must Take Af-

$6,750,000 for Jefferson Memorial Alive.

SENATORS YIELD TO

Provision for Money Elim-

A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, April 26. — Unless Congress takes affirmative action before June 30, no Federal funds will be available for the Jefferson riverfront memorial in St. Louis, Comptroller-General Fred
Brown ruled today.

Possibility of action by Congress reappropriating the $6,750,000 already allocated for the project was narrowed down when House and Senate conferees on the Department of the Interior appropriation bill agreed to reject a proposal to make the fund available after the June 30 deadline.

All day yesterday House and Senate conferees wrangled over the St.
Louis amendment, with both Democrats and Republicans from the House side holding firm against re-appropriation.

Finally, in the face of this insistence, Senate conferees conceded and the amendment was thrown out entirely.

Comptroller's Opinion.
The Comptroller-General gave his opinion in response to a request from Representative John J. Cochran of St. Louis. Cochran said he had been asked by a Washington representative of sponsors of the memorial project to call on the Comptroller's office for a ruling.

In his letter to Cochran, Comptroller-General Brown cited an opinion on the memorial fund rendered to Secretary of the Interior Ickes on Aug. 7, 1937. In that opinion, former Comptroller-General J. Raymond McCarr had ruled that the $6,750,000 could be spent only for commitments made prior to June 30, 1937. But the Attorney-General's order to push condemnation proceedings in court, issued before June 30, 1937, was held to be an obligation under which the Federal fund could be spent for acquisition of the memorial site.

St. Louis Pays Costs.
In the August, 1937, opinion, the Comptroller-General also held that no Federal funds could be used for administrative expenses after June 30, 1937. This means, of course, that all administrative costs since that date have been paid out of the $2,250,000 contributed by the City of St. Louis to match the Federal allocation.

Brown in his letter to Cochran said flatly that "no payment" could be made out of the Federal fund after June 30, 1939. Under an old statute covering the lapse of appropriations, the money for the project would revert to the general fund of the Treasury.

"The use of any portion of the allotted funds for any obligation incurred after June 30, 1937, aside from awards resulting from condemnation proceedings initiated prior to July 1, 1937, or for making payments after June 30, 1939, of any obligations even though incurred prior to July 1, 1937, would require additional legislation," Brown ruled in his letter to Cochran.

Secretary Ickes' Questions.
In the August, 1937, ruling, never hitherto made public, the Comptroller-General sought to answer three questions put by Secretary of the Interior Ickes in a letter sent on July 29, 1937. These questions were:
"Does the acceptance of the city's contribution merge the Federal and city funds and obligate them after June 30, 1937, so they may be used indiscriminately by this department in paying any and all expenses incidental to carrying out the objectives of executive order number 7283 authorizing the memorial?"
"May the contributed funds be used in payment of salaries of the non-civil service personnel heretofore and hereafter appointed to carry on the material project?"
"May Federal funds be obligated for land acquisition purposes pursuant to our request for condemnation, used for legal and administra-
